TEXAS ELECTS DEMOCRAT TO SEAT IN HOUSE

Party Gains Clear Majority by Capturing District From G. O. P.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Democrats have captured another seat in the House, thereby strengthening their grip on that body.

Notwithstanding the fact that there were seven Democrats arrayed against one Republican a Democrat was elected in the Fourteenth, or San Antonio, District in Texas, which had been represented in the House since 1920 by a Republican—the late Harry M. Wurzbach.

The returns, as reported here by the Associated Press, indicated that it was a three-man race, with the two leading Democrats polling about six votes to every one for the Republican.

Party Gets Majority.

Incomplete returns from all the eleven counties in the district showed the three men to be running as follows:

Richard M. Kleberg (Democrat), Corpus Christi, ranch manager, 17,263.

Carl Wright Johnson (Democrat), San Antonio lawyer, 13,012.

C. W. Anderson (Republican), San Antonio, former political manager for the late Representative Wurzbach, 5,020.

By sending a Democrat here the Lone Star State will give the party 218 members in the House, which is a clear majority of the total of 435.

Two Seats Vacant.

The Texas result, which undoubtedly will be hailed as another evidence of a Democratic "trend," gives the Democrats a numerical majority of three and a plurality of four in the party line-up in the House, as of today.

The standing now is as follows:

Republicans, 214.

Farmer-Labor, 1.

Vacancies, 2.

The two vacancies are in the Fifth Congressional District in New Jersey, made vacant by the death of the late Ernest R. Ackerman, and the First District in New Hampshire, made vacant by the death of Fletcher Hale. Both Ackerman and Hale were Republicans.

Only one of the two vacancies is to be filled before Congress convenes on December 7—that in New Jersey. Because A. Harry Moore, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey, recently carried the Ackerman district by 10,000 or more, the national headquarters of the Democratic party here is hopeful that a Democrat will be sent to the House on December 1.

Democrats Are Hopeful.

The vacancy caused by the death of Representative Hale, of New Hampshire, will not be filled until January 5, nearly a month after Congress has convened.

The Democrats also have hopes of winning these, and the pessimism of Senator George H. Moses with regard to the district has served to reinforce their hopes.

Two years ago, after the Hoover landslide, the Republicans had a majority of 100 or more in the House. In the 1930 offyear election, this was whittled down to a point where the standing was as follows: Republicans, 218; Democrats, 216, and Farmer-Labor, 1.

Shippers Attack Recapture Clause

Waterway Group to Give Railways Support on Issue.

St. Louis, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The Mississippi Valley Association, the waterway voice of shippers in 25 States, today voted to give its support to the railroads in their efforts to repeal the recapture clause of the transportation act, whereby excess railroad profits are pooled.

The move was viewed by waterway leaders as a conciliatory gesture toward the railroads, and an effort to remove the opposition of the railroads toward barge transportation.

The association at its closing session today, also formally adopted a resolution urging Congress to authorize a Federal bond issue to finance the early completion of the unfinished inland waterway system. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, Chicago, was elected president of the association today.

Pleurisy Adds Threat To Lya de Putti's Life

New York, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—Lya de Putti, Hungarian film star, who recently was stricken with blood poisoning, is in a critical condition at Harbor Sanitarium, her physicians said tonight.

Dr. L. O'Connor and Dr. M. Livingston, attending the star, said that pleurisy has set in. Miss De Putti developed blood poisoning when her throat was lacerated during the removal of a chicken bone.

Rainey Lead Held Sign of House Peace

(Associated Press.)

Democratic harmony on House organization questions was forecast yesterday as it became almost certain the floor leadership would go to a Northerner.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, virtually was assured of this second most important party post in the probable event that the Democrats control the next House.

An announcement by Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, that he was not a candidate for the leadership, followed the withdrawal of Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, went far toward settling the

O'BRIEN APPOINTED TARIFF BOARD HEAD

Post Fletcher Vacated Goes to Boston Publisher; Retaliation Plan Denied.

(Associated Press.)

Robert Lincoln O'Brien, a stanch New England Republican and a former editor of the Boston Herald, yesterday was named chairman of the Tariff Commission.

At the same time it was learned the administration is planning no increases in import duties as retaliation for the drastic tariffs imposed last week by Great Britain.

O'Brien's appointment, announced by President Hoover, came at a time when interest in American tariff policies is running high both at home and abroad.

The British increases and demands for revision of the Smoot-Hawley rates from some congressional factions have made the subject a center of attention. Moreover, it is expected to furnish an important issue in next year's presidential campaign.

One Tariff Commission vacancy remains to be filled. It was created by the death of Alfred P. Dennis, of Maryland, who was classed as a Democratic member. The President expects to make an appointment soon.

Lincoln Dixon, named originally to serve for one year, is now a member of the commission by recess appointment for a full six-year term. Thus, if the Dennis vacancy is filled, the Senate will be called upon at the coming session to confirm three nominations to the commission, which probably will evoke a thoroughgoing debate on the tariff issue.

O'Brien succeeds Henry P. Fletcher, of Greencastle, Pa., who has had an extensive and varied career in the Government's service. The latter is to be made a delegate to the coming general disarmament conference at Geneva and may become chairman of the American group.

In announcing appointment of O'Brien, Mr. Hoover said he had been an active Republican for more than 30 years. For the last three years, the President added, O'Brien has been president of the Middlesex Club, a party organization prominent in Massachusetts. Mr. Hoover also said he had been highly recommended for the post by many persons and organizations.

O'Brien was born in Abington, Mass., September 14, 1865. He was graduated from Harvard in 1891, and subsequently received honorary degrees from Dartmouth, Brown, Colby and Boston Universities.

After three years as personal stenographer to President Cleveland, he became Washington correspondent for the Boston Evening Tran-

RASKOB SWINGS WET EMPHASIS TO REFERENDUM

CONNALLY ASSAILS POLL AS DISRUPTIVE

Story on Naming of Chairman in 1928 Widens Rift.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee said yesterday he opposed the party taking either a wet or dry stand in 1932, but wanted it to declare for a referendum on prohibition.

As he issued this statement through the committee his move to bring up the controversial prohibition issue was assailed by Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas, as one "calculated to disrupt and divide the party's strength instead of promoting its success."

At the March meeting of the committee, Raskob proposed a plank providing State liquor control. His declaration yesterday on the eve of another national committee meeting was unexpected. He made the statement in defending his position in reply to a newspaper editorial.

Referendum Is Purpose.

"I strongly feel the party should take neither the wet nor the dry side of this highly controversial question," he said, "but that its platform should definitely commit the Democratic members of Congress to vote in favor of some resolution which will give the people themselves opportunity to vote on the question as to whether they wish the eighteenth amendment retained, repealed or modified."

Raskob also challenged the published assertion that Gov. Roosevelt of New York, opposed his selection by Alfred E. Smith in 1928 as head of the committee.

"Former Gov. Smith advises that Gov. Roosevelt never opposed my selection as national chairman, and I am very sure that this is the fact," he said.

State Rift Widened.

A recent biography of Gov. Roosevelt carried the statement of his opposition to Raskob's selection. The Roosevelt-Smith relations, apparently none the best in a political sense for some time, appear further aggravated.

Connally issued his statement in response to the letter he received as a campaign contributor in 1928 from Mr. Raskob, asking his viws on a prohibition stand by the party.

He opposed repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and supported the contention of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, that the 1932 campaign should be waged on economic issues.

Connally Scores Disruption.

"The efforts of those who have been honored by the party," said Mr. Connally: "And who are now pressing the demand for such a plank (repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment) are calculated to disrupt and divide the party's strength instead of promoting its success.

"Those who really desire a united party will not inject an issue that all men know will produce discord and bitterness in party ranks.

"The chairman of the national committee can render his party greater service by seeking to preserve its unity and converting it into a militant force to redeem the country from the disasters that have befallen it under the Republican administration than by promoting factional strife to becloud the otherwise brilliant prospects of our party's triumph."

Convention Manual Quoted.

Mr. Raskob issued his statement in reply to an editorial in the New York Times. His reference to Gov. Roose-

Farm Board Reveals Secrets of Operation

Fights for Life Before Senate Committee; Holds 189,656,187 Bushels of Wheat and 1,310,789 Bales of Cotton, Stone Reports.

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board bared its operating secrets yesterday in a battle for its life before the Senate agriculture committee.

The spectacular story of a two-year effort to help the farmer by gigantic stabilization operations and cooperative marketing was unfolded by Chairman Stone to justify the board's existence.

The quiet-mannered chairman delivered facts and figures on the board's operations in the form of an annual report to Congress. Then he sat through almost a full day of running cross-examination by critical members of the committee.

The report showed the board still holds, through its subsidiaries, 189,656,187 bushels of wheat and 1,310,789 bales of cotton.

Toward the end of the day Carl Williams, cotton member, took the stand and promised the board would hold its stabilization cotton off the market another year if the Southern farmers would go through with their acreage reduction programs. Under the present arrangement the surplus will be held until July 31.

Committee members, many of them open critics of the Farm Board policies, augmented by one or two other senators, sat around a long table and took turns firing questions at the board chairman.

Stone, cool and calm, sat in their midst with an arm over the back of his chair and much of the time a cigarette in his hand. He answered their questions in a quiet voice which could hardly be heard in some parts of the room.

Senator Brookhart (Republican) Iowa, criticized the board for confining its efforts to removing the surplus in cotton and wheat, declaring the troublesome surpluses in corn, oats and live stock were much more susceptible to exportation.

Stone said it would have been impossible for the board to handle the

NEW SUSPECT TAKEN IN TEA HOUSE KILLING

Third Philadelphia Arrest Comes as Brother of Man Wounded Is Quizzed.

A man was arrested in Philadelphia last night and the brother of a man wounded at the Colonial Tea House in Bladensburg was requestioned yesterday as police investigated the hold-up and shooting which killed one man and sent five other persons to the hospital early Monday.

The latest arrest in Philadelphia gave his name as John L. Grecu after being seized when he visited the house where two earlier suspects had been found. Aaron Kushner, proprietor of a Mount Rainier, Md., barbecue stand, was the man who was brought back to Hyattsville police station for reexamination.

Grecu is being held in bond of $2,000 for a hearing next Tuesday. No charge has been placed against him, although warrants charging them being accessories to the murder of Grover Amick have been sworn out against Nicholas Tronco and Cicero Renzuli. These two were arrested in Philadelphia several hours after the tea house shooting.

Grecu was taken after a street battle with Philadelphia detectives who had been waiting in Renzuli's house since his arrest. He told police that he had been sent from Baltimore with a letter for Renzuli.

Kushner is the brother of Samuel Kushner, one of the patrons of the house who was not injured in the gun battle. Police believe that Aaron Kushner knows more of the operation of the house than he has told them. Aaron Kushner came to the Hyattsville police station Monday after hearing that his brother was being held as a witness. He was questioned for some time and then released. Yesterday two policemen were sent to his barebcue stand to bring him back to the station, where he was interviewed for several hours. He was being held in Hyatsville early last night.

The warrants against Tronco and Renzuli were issued yesterday by Judge Robert Altemus, who is acting as coroner in the death of Amick. Meanwhile, the Philadelphia pair are being held for Maryland authorities.

Airplane Speeds Serum to Tom Mix

Condition of Actor Is Serious After Operation for Appendicitis.

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Sudden development of peritonitis rendered critical tonight the condition of Tom Mix, cowpuncher star of the screen and circus, after an operation today for a ruptured appendix.

His physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, broadcast a call for special serum, which was found in the laboratories of Stanford University. An airplane started south with a supply and a motorcycle awaited at the Glendale Airport to rush the bacteriophage to the Hollywood Hospital.

"Mix's condition is critical and will remain so far at least 48 hours," said Dr. Smith. "As soon as the bactriophage arrives it will be administered. It is our best hope for recovery. Mix's mind was clear when he awoke after the operation, but because peritonitis has set in his condition is now dangerous."

Trial of Hoover Relative On Rum Charge Delayed

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—By stipulation of counsel for both sides, the trial of C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, on charges of possession of 19 pints of liquor, was postponed today until December 3.

The delay was agreed upon because of the pressure of other business. Leavitt was arrested recently as he was leaving a grocery store. Officers said he was carrying the liquor in a gunny sack.

HARKER JURY, OUT 30 HOURS, RETIRES

Decision in Polcie Case Is Feared Hopeless as Veniremen Retire.

Twelve very tired men strggled out of the jury room in the courthouse at 9:30 last night, unable after 30 hours to agree on a verdict in the police "third degree" case.

Under guard of United States marshals they were taken to the Continental Hotel for the second night.

Because the jury did not sit until 10 o'clock, it is thought that decision in the case is hopeless. It was apparently believed by the veniremen that another half hour's deliberation would not bring and agreement.

The body will probably be brought before Justice James M. Proctor at 10 o'clock this morning. tI is possible that a verdict on one or two of the defendants will be given at that time, and a mistrial will result when the justice may discharge the body because of its inability to agree upon the others.

At 1:30 yesterday afternoon Justice James M. Proctor called the jury into the courtroom, and when he was advised by the foreman that no verdict had been reached he requested the body to make every possible effort for a decision.

The minority, whether in favor of conviction or acquittal, should consider if their doubt is a reasonable one and if they should be justified in questioning the decision of the majority, he said.

James O'Shea and Frank Kelly, attorneys for James Mostyn, W. R. Laflin, W. T. Burroughs and W. C. Grooms, the defendants, objected to the court's charge and an exception was noted upon the records.

The case went to the jury at 4:08 Monday afternoon, following Justice Proctor's charge. The trial had then consumed 7 days, in which 80 witnesses took the stand for both prosecution and defense.

In the late afternoon yesterday, most of the spectators had departed from the courthouse, leaving only the four defendants and their friends. The policemen appeared to believe that the length of the jury's delib-

Jury Gets Charge Against Pantages

Theater Man's Second Trial on Dancer's Accusation Nears End.

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The case of Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, accused of attacking Eunice Pringle, young dancer, was given to a jury in the court of Superior Judge Clair S. Tappaan tonight. Supplied with instructions from the court, the jury went to dinner before beginning deliberations.

It was the second trial for Pantages since, on the afternoon of August 9, 1929, the screams of pretty Eunice Pringle were heard in the offices of the Pantages downtown theater here. She claimed she asked him to book a vaudeville act in which she was to dance, and that he attacked her in a little conference room to which he had lured her.

He was convicted of assault in October, 1929, and sentenced to from 1 to 50 years. The State supreme court granted him a retrial on the ground that the first trial judge erred in barring testimony relating to Miss Pringle's motives and reputation.

Reds and Roumanians Stage Trawler Battle

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—An unofficial naval battle between Soviet and Roumanain trawlers during a gale on the Black Sea was reported today from Constanza.

Authorities here were uninformed tonight of the cause or extent of the fighting, but it was reported to have been a fierce affray, with the belligerents using boat hooks, oars and firearms. Three boats were reported capsized.

RESERVE GROUP ASKS CHANGE IN BANKING POLICY

Publishes First Analysis of Operation Since '29 Market Crash.

EXISTING BALANCES CALLED INADEQUATE

Committee Seeks Only to Do What Congress Intended in Forming System.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Fundamental changes in the national banking policy were recommended yesterday by a special committee of the Federal Reserve System.

The first exhaustive analysis of Federal Reserve operations published since the stock market crash of 1929, the report emphasizes the necessity for maintaining a more effective stabilizing relationship between bank reserves and the expansion of commercial credits.

With its conclusion that the Federal Reserve law never has operated "to relate the expansion of member bank credit to the needs of trade and industry," the committee presented a series of specific recommendations for changes in prevailing statutes and administrative regulations. All of these recommendations point to the same great objective—a self-operative check on inflationary credits.

Found to Be Inadequate.

On the whole, existing reserves were found to be adequate. There is no suggestion to increase their national volume. But a recommendation that reserves of individual member banks take into account the frequency of deposit turnover would introduce an entirely new element in the formula for determining legal reserve requirements.

The committee, established during the White House conferences which immediately followed the stock market crash, was directed by the governors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks to search out a method "to establish bank reserves throughout the country on a more logical or effective basis than now appears to be possible under present laws." E. L. Smead, chief of the Division of Bank Operations of the Federal Reserve Board, was chairman of the inquiry. The deputy governors of the New York, San Francisco and Cleveland Federal Reserve banks, and E. A. Goldenweiser, director of the Division of Research and Statistics in the Federal Reserve Board, were the other members.

The committee's report has not yet been formally approved by the Federal Reserve Board. Pending its consideration of the recommendations, however, the board consented to publication of the results of the exhaustive inquiry. It is anticipated that after the board passes upon the report it will be presented to President Hoover for transmittal to Congress next month with his general message.

Flat Reserve Requirement.

The committee proposes to abolish completely existing classification of deposits into time and demand categories and to require a flat reserve of 5 per cent on combined net deposits. In addition, each bank would be required to maintain in reserve a fund equal to 50 per cent of its daily average debits to deposit accounts.

This last provision is calculated to work as a credit stabilizers by forc-

MEXICO CHALLENGES DEPUTIES ACQUITTAL

(United Press.)

The Mexican foreign office, it was learned yesterday, has sent the State Department a critical note dealing with the freeing of Deputy Sheriff William F. Guess by a district court at Ardmore, Okla. Guess had been charged with killing a schoolboy relative of Mexican President Ortiz Rubio.

The note held the Federal Government responsible for the case, although Washington has pointed out that it has no jurisdiction over State courts.

There were indications in Mexican quarters yesterday that the note will be followed by a second strong protest from Mexico City. One was filed at the time young Rubio was killed last summer.

Early last June two Mexican students, Emilio Cortes Rubio, 20, and Manuel Gomez, 22, were returning to their homes by automobile from a Midwestern school. While passing through Ardmore, Okla., at night they were accosted by two peace officers, William E. Guess and Cecil Crosby. The two boy students were killed. The officers contended the Mexicans were armed.

Guess was acquitted last summer on charges of killing Rubio. Last Sunday a district jury at Ardmore freed both Guess and Crosby of killing Gomez. The court dismissed murder charges against Crosby in the death of Rubio.

The Mexican note was based largely on information given the Mexican foreign office by the State Department last summer about the original incident and the first trial of Guess. It was written before Sunday's verdict, which has aroused a new storm of editorial protest in Mexico against what one newspaper there termed "The famous gringo justice."

Mexico's latest note was described as a series of comments and criticisms, not a definitive request for action. It is expected to be followed by others.

The Ardmore incident, coupled with the arrest of a Mexican consul in

Death Near for Former Governor of Tennessee

Johnson City, Tenn., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Physicians attending Alfred A. Taylor, Tennessee's 83-year-old former governor and colorful political figure, announced tonight that death was near.

Victim of complications arising from uremic poisoning, the aged political leader had remained unconscious throughout the day.

Officials at Toyko Deny Offense Was Aimed at Chinchow.

NANKING PREPARING LAST PLEA TO LEAGUE

Japan Decides to Ask That Chang Recall Troops in Step for Peace.

(Associated Press.)

A drive against 12,000 bandits southwest of Mukden, started by Japanese airplanes and troops yesterday morning, cleared out the area, Tokyo was informed.

Japanese dispatches said the bandits were driven west of the Liao River.

Military authorities in Tokyo denied the offensive was aimed in any way at Chinchow, where 50,000 Chinese troops are reported to have been massed.

The Tokyo government decided to ask the League of Nations to persuade Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, to remove a threat of future conflicts by withdrawing his forces from Chinchow.

Col. J. G. McIlroy, the first American Army observer to reach the scene of the Manchurian conflict, arrived at Mukden with other Tokyo military attaches.

Encounter Proves Minor.

An encounter between Chinese and Japanese troops at Kautaishan, originally reported by Japanese army headquarters to have resulted in heavy fighting, turned out to be a minor affair.

Shanghai learned that a Japanese cruiser, with fresh troops and munitions, arrived at Chinwangtao, on the Gulf of Liaotung, just south of the Manchurian border.

A Chinese dispatch said the Japanese were planning to sever communications between Peiping and Manchuria.

The Chinese delegation at the League of Nations Council prepared a last desperate gesture to force a demand for Japanese evacuation. They planned to ask the league leaders whether there was any meaning in the articles of the league covenant providing for the territorial integrity of members and setting forth military and economic measures to be used against nations that violated the covenant.

Nanking Sends Proposal.

Nanking sent the league a proposal for the settlement based on immediate measures by the league to end aggressive acts by Japan; withdrawal of all Japanese forces two weeks after the adoption of the Chinese proposal by the league, and neutral observers to supervise evacuation. This was interpreted as a stiffening of China's attitude.

Tokyo, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Japan launched an offensive today against a force of Chinese bandits, estimated to number as high as 12,000, who have been established in the rough country southwest of Mukden, Manchuria.

Dispatches received by the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency after the beginning of the drive had been announced here, said the operation was entirely successful.

According to these dispatches, foot soldiers, working with the assistance of airplanes, routed the bandits and drove them west of the Liao River.

Drive on Chinchow Denied.

Japanese military authorities denied that the action was aimed at Chinchow, where Tokyo has lisard 50,000 Chinese troops have been concentrated.

The Japanese explained the offensive was "a local affair to stamp out banditry." Many of the bandits, it was said, were gypsy soldiers who have been conducting raids on various villages and living off the country.

The government decided today to go to the League of Nations in regard to the situation at Chinchow. The Japanese military authorities declared the concentration of troops there was necessary to avoid military action.

Commissioners' Ire Stirred By Coercion in Chest Drive

Will Warn Department Heads Today That Pressure Must Not Be Brought to Bear to Obtain Pay Donations; Alleged Offender Cited.

Heads of the various departments of the District government, who comprise the Community Chest soliciting committee, will again be warned today by the District Commissioners that they are not to employ coercion while obtaining signatures of District employes to the pledge of three days' pay, or less, during January, February and March. Sanitary Engineer J. B. Gordon, who yesterday admitted that he had advised his subordinates to contribute on the ground that they would be "marked" men if they didn't, will be called before the commissioners this morning to explain his action.

Letters will be sent today to divisional chairmen of the various government branches, Federal and District, recommending that employes living in communities adjacent to the District be permitted to specify the outside agency to which they wish their pledges allocated, the executive committee of the Departmental Committee on Unemployment Relief announced.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, yesterday reiterated that the commissioners are opposed to any methods of forcing or frightening employes into pledging three days' pay. The committee in charge, he said, has never expected to get 100 per cent donations because it realized that many persons are unable to subscribe even one day's pay.

The Commissioner likewise denied there is any significance in the fact that Maj. D. J. Donovan, District au-

Goods Jam British Ports In Race With New Tariff

Ships and Planes Rush in Merchandise Up Till Final Hour When 50 Per Cent Duty Under "Abnormal Imports Act" Becomes Operative.

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The customs sheds of British ports hummed with activity today as officers wrestled with mountains of manufactured goods sent to Great Britain in the past two days to beat the new 50 per cent tariff duties which go into effect at midnight.

The crucial hour was 4 o'clock, inasmuch as all goods not cleared by the customs at that time will have to pay duty. Inquiries at many ports showed that the number of ships arriving from abroad with exports maintained the high average set since the beginning of the month.

The last minute efforts of continental manufacturers to get their goods in before the tariff wall was made by air rather than by sea. The Croydon Airdrome was one of the busiest spots in the country as type-writers, gloves, glassware, cutlery and scores of other articles were unloaded from planes arriving from France, Germany and elsewhere.

As sponsored by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, the "abnormal importations act" will affect numerous articles ordinarily imported from the United States. It takes its authority from the anti-dumping measure adopted by Parliament last week to equalize the nation's balance of trade.

The Board of Trade has fixed 26 per cent as the empire content for goods entering Great Britain from the dominions to qualify on the duty-free list. The order would prevent the use of any dominion as an assembly ground for parts manufactured in other countries and shipped to Great Britain as empire products.

MAN HURT AS CARS COLLIDE ON BRIDGE

Clarendon Citizen in Serious Condition; Two Children Severely Shaken.

Benjamin Bland, 39 years old, of 307 Milton avenue, Clarendon, Va., received injuries that may prove fatal, and his two children, Benjamin Bland, jr., 11, and Myrtle Virginia Bland, 8, were severely shaken when the automobile he was driving collided with another automobile and skidded into the girders on the draw of Highway Bridge at 5:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred when Mr. Bland's car, going toward Washington, struck a machine operated by F. H. Duehay, of Mount Eagle, near Alexandria, Va., according to an investigation made by Fourth Precinct police. Mr. Duehay, driving south, was passing a truck operated by Les Wilson, of Uniontown, Pa., police learned.

Mr. Duehays' machine was hurled into the steelwork on the west side of the bridge while the truck skidded into the rear of his machine. Both the Duehay and Bland machines were badly smashed. The truck was less severely damaged.

Mr. Bland and his two children were taken to Emergency Hospital in an ambulance. Mr. Bland was reported to have a possible fracture of the skull. His condition was described as grave. His son is suffering from shock, while the little girl has lacerations about the face.

Mr. Duehay was accompanied by his wife, James Hayes, of Utica, N. Y., was with Wilson. They escaped injury.

Both Duehay and Wilson were taken to the Fourth Precinct Station, where they were booked on charges of investigation. Police said the case would be referred to the corporation counsel's office.

velt brought into more bold relief the apparent row in the Democratic party.

Friends of Mr. Roosevelt's nomination for President were among the most active in forestalling Mr. Raskob's move at the last Democratic meeting for a vote on a State liquor control plan.

Defending his position that it is up to the national committee to recommend planks for the party platform, Raskob quoted from the manual of the Democratic National Convention saying that the national committee has power of "recommendation of policies or procedure for the consideration of the convention."

Against Wet Decision.

"I am not of the belief," he said yesterday, "nor do I recommend that the committee or its chairman make the slightest attempt to draft the party platform.

"Last March I recommended that the Democratic National Committee consider the advisability of suggesting to the next Democratic National Convention that the decision of the prohibition question be removed as far as possible from politics through submitting it directly to the people themselves for decision.

"I strongly feel the party should take neither the wet nor the dry side of this highly controversial question, but that its platform should definitely commit the Democratic members of Congress to vote in favor of some resolution which will give the people themselves opportunity to vote on the question as to whether they wish the eighteenth amendment retained, repealed or modified."

Fishburne Opposes Liquor As Major Campaign Issue

(Associated Press.)

Representative Fishburne, of Charlottesville, Va., holds the opinion several Democratic leaders that prohibition as a presidential campaign issue should be submerged.

The Virginian said yesterday he had not yet studied the questionnaire issued Monday by Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, concerning prohibition and States rights and declined comment on it.

"I believe," he said, however, "it would be a mistake for the Democratic party to make prohibition a major issue or to insert a wet plank in its platform."

Economic conditions should be basis for the presidential fight, he said.

Fishburne was here yesterday attending to matters connected with his district. He will go home today and will return to Washington a few days before Congress convenes.

Giving, Man Acquires, Is Thought for Today

By JOHN J. DALY

PRESIDENT HOOVER and the White House circle pledge to contribute three days' pay to the emergency relief fund, thus setting an example for the Nation.

In this world—a happy-go-lucky picture—and old camping ground, according to each man's lights—it is mighty difficult at times to realize that one may add to one's happiness by giving some to others.

Yet a glance over the records shows this to be true. The wisest men are those who see that living so that others may enjoy life, too, is the finest contribution to humanity. By giving, a man acquires.

* * * *

THERE is one great day coming when each man for himself will see how the balance is struck; how those who gave received, how those who received had given something.

John Ruskin wrote: "The will of God respecting us is that we shall live by each other's happiness; not by each other's misery or death."—And the spreading of happiness is like a rubber ball that bounces back into the hands of him who throws it.

Maurice Maeterlinck, the old Blue Bird for Happiness man, struck a majestic note when he said: "You are told you should love your neighbor as yourself; but if you love yourself meanly, childishly, timidly, even so you shall love your neighbor."

This is no plea for egotism or pride; but for a glorious release from petty selfishness that, shaken off, enobles human nature. Maeterlinck adds: "Let us be ready to offer, when necessity beckons, our wealth, and our time, and our life, to our less fortunate brethren, making them thus an exceptional gift of a few exceptional hours."

* * * *

THE very first dawn of keen appreciation of living, and of happiness in the living spreads over the soul of the man who, meeting with another less fortunate, shares what he has and receives in return the hapiness no money can buy.

It seems pitiful, in a way, that so much publicity must be attendant upon the great gifts now being offered on the public altar, for it still remains true, as St. Just said long ago, "The way for a man to give is with no witness save his heart alone."

The beggar who passes the window may have a gift to offer greater by far than the man at the banquet table who tosses a crust.

There are two sides to giving and to receiving, so that some men fall, their burden lightened, and other men, with load's thrust upon their backs, go on to greater heights.

PHILADELPHIA POLICE SEIZE THIRD SUSPECT IN SHOOTING

Detectives Cornelius Roche and William Feehley, of Baltimore, who were asked to assist the investigation, said yesterday that no steps had been taken toward their extradition. They are being held without bail.

So far the authorities have not definitely learned whether the shooting was the result of a holdup, whether the bandit gang went to the house determined to kill some certain man, or whether it was a war between rival gangs of white-slavers. They believe that the first shot was fired either by a patron of the house or one of the guards of the place, though the six wounded and 11 held as witnesses have all denied doing any shooting. The collection of four guns found in and near the house are being examined for fingerprints, which may give a clue to their owners. A pane of glass has also been taken from one of the windows as a possible source of fingerprints.

Fail in Identification.

Reports were received yesterday that a similar establishment in a nearby county had been robbed in a similar manner about ten days ago. It was also said that one of the customers of the place had recently complained of losing about $700 during a party there. This is the basis of the belief that the shooting may have been a work of revenge directed at some particular person.

The Baltimore detectives drew a blank yesterday in their efforts to have witnesses of the shooting identify pictures of gangsters as members of the holdup party. When they returned to Hyattsville yesterday morning they carried a collection of photographs culled from police files. The uninjured witnesses were unable or unwilling to identify any of them, and the pictures were then shown to the injured, who claimed not to know them.

Maryland authorities will not be sent to Philadelphia to question the three suspects held there, it was said yesterday. For the time being this examination will be left to police of the Pennsylvania city.

The three taxi drivers arrested by Washington police Monday night were brought to Hyattsville yesterday for questioning. They are being held with the rest of the witnesses at the Hyattsville police station.

Two in Serious State.

The three drivers are John D. McComas, 22, of 3547 S street northwest; Fred G. Prinkert, 22, of 1344 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and Carl F. Prinkert, 26, of 32 Sycamore avenue, Takoma Park. Carl Prinkert, who went with his brother to take two fares to the place, was slightly wounded in the thigh. The others who are still being held in Hyattsville are Mae Dix, Dorothy Jordan, Helen Conley, Jean Gordon and Marie Wilson, all of Baltimore; and Samuel Kushner, John March, Raymond Sisler and Arthur Crockett, all of Washington.

They are being held for investigation, but the 48 hours detention allowed on this charge will expire early this morning. It is understood that warrants for them as material witnesses have been issued and are ready to be served. These will be read to them when the period of investigation has been ended.

Charles Levitt, alleged proprietor of the house, and Norman Garey, of Baltimore, are said to be the only two of the wounded in a serious condition. The other victims are Thomas Simone, Mrs. Verne Edwards and Felix Biocchiocchio, alias John J. Bartlet.

LAW VIOLATION LAID TO SUGAR CONCERNS

Firms Seeking Higher Tariff Gave to Both Parties, Evidence Shows.

(Associated Press.)

A group of sugar companies that worked assiduously for a higher tariff were described yesterday as having broken the law by political contributions which went to both parties in 1928.

Before the Senate lobby committee ended its hearing on B. G. Dahlberg's work for a higher sugar tariff, John Holland, committee investigator, said Mr. Dahlberg, head of several sugar companies, contributed nearly $15,000 to Republicans and Democrats, either directly to candidates or to the parties in 1928.

Mr. Holland added that Mr. Dahlberg's sugar firms reimbursed him for his personal campaign donations and then marked the money up to "expenses."

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, a committee member, commented that political contributions by corporations were barred by the corrupt practices act.

Mr. Holland answered they were unlawful, but it was not indicated whether any action would be taken against Mr. Dahlberg or the concerns.

Report of Committee.

Apparently all that is left to end the inquiry is the lobby committee's report with nothing to indicate when it would come.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, chairman of the committee since the death of Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, said all the evidence apparently had been gathered.

He left the way open, however, for further testimony in event any of those mentioned in the hearing asks to appear.

Two senators, Watson, Republican leader from Indiana, and Davis, Republican, Pennsylvania, were described in testimony as having made "paper profits" in the purchase on credit of Dahlberg company stock. Mr. Watson said he had no intention of going before the committee.

Reiterates Statement.

"I have done nothing that requires explanation," Watson said. He reiterated that his 1928 investment, while involving no transfer of money, had nothing to do with legislation. He said he had purchased stock in the past and probably would do so in the future.

Senator Davis saw "complete exoneration" for himself in the investigation. He said he saw no reason to go before the committee as it had failed to find anything more than what he told it himself last spring. Like Watson, he held the transaction was a private one, having nothing to do with "government."

Holland said Dahlberg engaged in direct efforts for a higher sugar tariff in 1929. The levy on the raw product finally was raised by Congress from 1.76 to 2 cents a pound.

Mass of Correspondence.

Seated before a long green-topped table, Holland, a stocky and slightly bald man in his 30s, took Walsh and Blaine, the only committee members present, through a mass of correspondence obtained from the files of Dahlberg companies.

The records showed that $5,000 of the political contributions went to the Republican national committee and $1,000 to the "Alfred E. Smith campaign committee."

Holland detailed contributions as follows:

Between $7,000 and $8,000 went for anti-Smith, sugar and flood control legislation campaigns in Florida and the District of Columbia; $300 for the Louisiana congressional campaign of M. E. Norman, Republican, who failed to gain the seat vacated by the death of Representative Martin, Democrat, and $250 for expenses of Glenn B. Skipper, then Republican national committeeman from Florida, to attend a sugar tariff meeting of producers in Kansas City.

DAWES AND STIMSON TALK ON TELEPHONE

the British foreign minister, and representative at the Paris conversations were almost identic

It was learned here last night that Ambassador Dawes in his conversations with the various league delegates, has been reviewing the situation created by Article 12 of the league covenant. This is the article which treats of the invocation of arbitration and the appointment of arbitral commissions by the league council.

The demand for a commission of inquiry has been unanimous both in the Japanese and in the Chinese delegations. They have virtually agreed to the provisions of Article 12, which provide:

"The members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they will submit the matter either to arbitration or to an inquiry by the council, and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the report by the council.

"In any case under this article the award of the arbitrators shall be made within a reasonable time, and the report of the council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute."

The two nations are nearer in agreement toward the constitution and the powers of the commission than they really indicate in their conversations here and in Paris. The conversations Ambassador Dawes has been carrying on in his Hotel Ritz suite in Paris have gradually succeeded in bringing the Chinese and the Japanese closer together on the basic scope of the investigating commission. All this has been accomplished without his presence at the meetings of the league council, which has enabled him to maintain an independence of judgment and directness of method which seems to be on the point of success.

The American independence of viewpoint which Secretary Stimson reserved in his initial note to the league announcing the fact and the conditions of American participation in the first meeting of the league on the Manchurian problem, has been maintained.

While Ambassador Dawes has been negotiating in Paris not only with the two powers in dispute but also with M. Aristide Briand, chairman of the council for this emergency problem, Secretary Stimson has been following the same general attitude in his conversations here with Japanese Ambassador Debuchi and Chinese Charge Hawkling Yen.

It was learned here last night that no formal move has been made to sound out the United States on the possible appointment of an American member of the Commission of inquiry. Japan has informally spoken of the desirability of including Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff, but there has been no official move toward this end. Gen. Summerall is now living in retirement in Florida.

The proposed commission would have from three to five members, and among them it is believed possible that the United States would have no objection to the inclusion of Gen. Summerall or any other American as delegate.

The position Gen. Dawes has maintained from the beginning, has enabled him to demonstrate American independence from league participation in such a decisive fashion that there can be no possibility of senatorial complaint on the abandonment of the traditional American attitude toward the league and its council.

Both Senators Borah and Joseph T. Robinson have insisted that the United States avoid any entanglements with either European politics or Oriental problems. The fashion with which the Manchurian problem has been handled to date between the Secretary of State and the American Ambassador in London, it is believed will forestall any of these charges.

EASTERN RAILROADS THREATEN PAY CUTS

New York Conferees Decide to Take No Action Till December 8.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Prominent railroads of the Nation, as represented by the Eastern Presidents' Conference which met in New York today, virtually presented an ultimatum to all union workers that wages must be voluntarily reduced within the next few weeks or formal action would be taken to forcibly bring about such reduction.

Meeting at the Bankers Club, 31 rail officials under the chairmanship of L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, decided to give the brotherhoods a "last chance" to cut their own pay checks. In other words, the railroad heads agreed to take no further action in the wage matter until the meeting in Chicago December 8 of 1,500 representatives of union organizations.

Hold Wage Cuts Necessary.

It was stressed, however, that wage cuts averaging at least 10 per cent all along the line were absolutely necessary to save the carriers from the economic morass, and that there was "considerable hope" these reductions would be voluntary on the part of the workers. The Chicago meeting, it was concluded, will answer the question of whether there will be a battle between employers and employes or a "peaceful economic acceptance of the situation."

F. W. Leamy, secretary of the Eastern Conference and vice president of the Delaware & Hudson, following the meeting today, expressed the consensus which, he said, prevailed among the officials present.

"If the workers do not realize the distress of the carriers and understand that wage reductions now mean life or death to many of our roads, then the railway officials will immediately begin formal proceedings to obtain the relief which is a prime necessity for the existence of their lines," he said.

Approval of Action Seen.

As one close to the railways put it, "The brotherhood chiefs are somewhat in the position of being 'on the spot.' They have the large membership of their organizations to consider and they are timid about advocating outright the matter of wage reductions. But the meeting in Chicago will be one of wide representation, and anything that is done there, will in all probability receive the approval of the lay membership."

Rail officials who attended today's conference were somewhat cheered by the news that the receiver-operated Georgia & Florida Railroad had reached an agreement with the brotherhood employes for a 10 per cent wage cut, effective December 1. It was said, however, that while this might be indicative of the general trend, the case was scarcely comparable to that of other carriers.

In the matter of the Georgia & Florida the receivers had virtually decided to cease operating the road unless the pay roll could be amputated. The unions at first dissented, but later when an arbitrator came into the affair and conferences were held with the railroad officials, it was finally decided to accept the reduction.

On Monday night at 10 o'clock when no verdict had been reached, Justice Proctor ordered the body removed to the Continental Hotel, where its members spent the night under guard of United States marshals.

About an hour after deliberations began the veniremen asked for the pictures of Harker which showed the results of his alleged beating.

Harker was arrested by Burroughs after a lunchroom on North Capitol street had been robbed. After questioning at the precinct station he allegedly admitted the crime to police.

He later said that the four officers made him confess in order to escape further brutal beating. The policemen testified that Harker's admission was given freely after they had confronted him with several flaws in the alibi which he put forward at the time.

In his rebuttal argument to the jury, Prosecutor Leo A. Rover asked for the conviction of all four defendants.

JURY ACTION SOUGHT AS MOB HUNTS MAN

Assault Suspect Is Moved From Jail in Easton to Baltimore.

Chestertown, Md., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins today petitioned Circuit Judge Lewin W. Wickes to call a special session of the Kent County grand jury to act against George Davis, Negro, on charges of attempted assault on a white woman.

Mr. Collins made his appeal for the special session and a speedy trial for Davis after a mob of 800 persons gathered here last night and early today ransacked jails of four counties in their search for him. The Negro, meanwhile, was taken from nearby Easton to the Baltimore City Jail for safe keeping.

The State's attorney said he had "no intention" of prosecuting leaders of the mob, which he and Sheriff John T. Vickers said contained many of the most prominent residents of Kent, Queen Anne, Cecil and Talbot counties.

Ritchie Declines to Act.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie likewise declined to act on an appeal made by Louis Berger, chairman of the Maryland Branch of the International Labor Defense League. The State executive said the matter was in the hands of Kent County authorities and they were "honest and efficient."

Davis, accused of attempting to assault Mrs. Elizabeth Lusby, 25, wife of a Kent County farmer near Kennedysville, Saturday, was captured yesterday in Wilmington, Del., and taken to the Kent Jail here.

Sheriff John T. Vickers, of Kent County, took the Negro to Easton late last night when he was informed a mob was approaching the Chestertown Jail. State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins, of Kent, succeeded in quieting the crowd with the assertion the Negro was not in Chestertown.

Leaders Hunt Davis.

The leaders of the mob learned of Davis' removal to the Easton Jail, however, and drove the 30 miles there. Sheriff A. Ray Carroll sent the Negro to Baltimore under guard of two deputies, circling the route taken by the Kent mob.

Davis, Mrs. Lusby said, attempted the attack early Saturday morning while her husband, Edgar, was absent from the house. The Negro formerly had been employed by Lusby. She repulsed his attack, she told Sheriff Vickers, but was injured in the struggle.

A posse scoured the territory around Kennedysville after the attack, but Davis escaped to Wilmington, where he was arrested yesterday through receipt in Chestertown of a letter requesting money from a relative.

Sheriff Vickers said more than 800 persons were in the mob which invaded the Chestertown Jail last night and that it split into three bodies after he had escorted a delegation through the cells to prove the Negro was not there.

One party went to Elkton to the Cecil County Jail, another to Centerville to the Queen Annes County Jail and the third to Easton.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 116

GREAT FALLS has ever been a favorite picnic grounds for lovers of the out-of-doors, even away back in 1906 when the popular resort was a good deal farther from the Capital, speaking in terms of transportation, than it is today.

Among those resting on the rocks above the torrent, after a more or less arduous hike, may be distinguished the following:

Criminal Assault Case Jury Chosen

Maryland Man Is Accused of Attack on Girl, 16; Venue Changed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Nov. 24.—The removal of criminal assault cases from all the counties in this judicial circuit seems to make them fall to the lot of the Circuit Court for Talbot County. So far there have been two cases tried here that were removed from other counties.

Today the removed cases from Cecil County of the State versus Samuel R. Logan, charged with criminally assaulting Sarah E. Harris, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Harris, of Northeast Cecil County, was taken up here before a jury with Hall Dawson, of Trappe, as foreman. Before this jury could be obtained the 24 jurors of the regular panel and 24 talesmen was exhausted.

The court adjourned until tomorrow after State's Attorney Ellis Rollins, of Cecil County, made his opening statement before the jury. He is assisted by State's Attorney Oliver S. Mulliken, of Talbot County. Logan is being defended by Henry Warburton, of Cecil County. The case is attracting much attention and the courtroom was well filled this afternoon.

SECRETS OF ITS OPERATIONS REVEALED BY FARM BOARD

surplus in all crops with the $500,000,000 provided by Congress.

"I blame you for not coming to Congress and asking for more money," Brookhart said.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, contended the board had gone back into the stabilization of wheat in the winter after the crop had left the farmers' hands and then got out of the market again before the farmers were ready to sell in the spring.

Stone said the board, by returning to the market, had saved the country from a possible collapse of its credit structure, and that it had continued stabilization activities long enough to let the farmer adjust his acreage.

The board chairman told the committee he was holding back nothing, that there was nothing he would not tell.

Questioned by Chairman McNary, Stone said 47,500,000 bushels of wheat had been sold to foreign governments, based on the Chicago price at the time of the deal.

The average price for all of the board sales was estimated by the chairman at between 53 and 54 cents a bushel. It was purchased at 81 cents on the average.

Stone said the grain stabilization corporation was controlled by the Farm Board, but the Farmers' National Grain Corporation was not.

"Then the stabilization corporation is an agency of the board rather than a spokesman for the producers," McNary commented.

The board has $45,000,000 of uncommitted funds remaining from its $500,000,000 revolving fund, Stone testified. It has $22,000,000 of funds committed but not used, he added.

He estimated the board's losses on loans outside of wheat and cotton stabilization would not exceed 2 per cent. McNary attempted to get an estimate of the entire loss, but Stone said he could not give it then, but might later.

Others who joined in the questioning included Senators Norris (Republican), Nebraska; Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma; Thomas (Republican), Idaho; Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming; Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, and Capper (Republican), Kansas.

No Additional Funds.

The board's report made no recommendations for changes in the marketing act, nor for additional funds. It laid great stress on development of cooperative marketing, which it upheld as its long-time undertaking.

It said 730,000 farmers were allied with these cooperatives, which were loaned $255,866,458. Of this, $146,367,203 had been repaid, leaving a balance of $109,499,254.

In its stabilization operations, the board reported it had paid $270,204,503 for 329,641,052 bushels of wheat.

Altogether 1,319,809 bales of cotton were taken off the market at a cost of $107,533,246. The cotton was bought at an average price of 16.3 cents a pound.

Senator Norris insisted that the Government Treasury is going to have to stand the loss of the stabilization operations.

Foresee No Great Loss.

Stone and Williams argued that they expected to sell their holdings and face no great loss.

"The last two years, you must admit, have been very serious years in which to test the law," Stone said. "We have been in a declining market from the start."

"Yes," said Norris, "but I say if we must operate on a world basis some one must pay the loss if we don't use the export debenture of equalization fee. As it stands now, the Government must stand the loss."

Stone said, "The wheat situation today is in a much stronger position than it was a few months ago."

He added that he expected an appreciable reduction of acreage in 1932

Board Has Not Revealed All Truth, Says Murray

Oklahoma City, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A new exhortation that Congress compel the Farm Board to divulge every transaction in the sale, storage or loan of wheat and cotton holdings was made here today by Gov. W. H. Murray as the board's report was laid before a Senate committee in Washington.

The board's report, said the Oklahoman, "possibly is true as far as it goes, but to my own knowledge the board has not told all of the truth."

"Documentary proof is in existence showing that they made loans to the millers of Utah," Murray said. "The process was that the Farm Board would sell a quantity of wheat to a miller at a certain price and on the same day buy an equivalent quantity which the miller might deliver within 60 or 90 days at substantially the same price. Clearly, this prevented a rise in prices."

MEXICO CHALLENGES DEPUTIES' ACQUITTAL

Chicago last summer nad one or two other embarrassing cases, has created considerable ill feeling against the United States, if editorial expressions in Mexican newspapers may be taken as an accurate reflection of public opinion.

This condition has worried the State Department, which has worked valiantly for three years to restore the good relations broken down by the oil and land controversy of 1927 and 1928. The late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico from late in 1927 to 1930, was the prime mover in this campaign of friendship.

The State Department is anxious to have Mexico feel that justice will be done in the Ardmore case. It was learned in official quarters that in the case of a number of Italians were killed in New Orleans and that subsequently Congress voted an indemnity for their families. Such a procedure in the present instance is considered a possibility.

Self-Defense Plea In Double Slaying

Veteran Surrenders; Says Man and Wife Killed Attacked Him.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—H. B. Whitsell, World War veteran, surrendered to authorities today on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Roy Thompson and Thompson's wife last night. Officers said Whitsell admitted killing the husband and wife, but stated that he shot in self-defense. He said he was attacked on the highway near Stuart's draft, following an argument with the Thompsons.

The woman was shot in the forehead and died instantly. Her husband received a bullet wound in the chest and bled to death. Whitsell said the Thompsons used sticks and rocks in their alleged attack on him.

Authorities said they deem an inquest to be unnecessary. Commonwealth's Attorney H. H. Kerr is expected to present the case to the grand jury at its next regular session in January. The slain man and woman were about 30 years of age. The shooting occurred near the Thompson home.

RITCHIE SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR SOUTH

Says Return to Fundamental Principles Will Bring Back Prosperity.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland declared here tonight that the fundamental impulses and virtues that made the United States a great Nation would lead it back into the path of prosperity.

Speaking before the allied civic and luncheon clubs of Richmond, the Maryland executive painted a rosy picture of the future in the South through a return to these early principles.

"As we think about it all and try to figure out how we can set the necessary reconstruction forces to work, we see lowered tariffs as a means of stopping the embargoes against American goods and the flight of American industry abroad and making possible the payment of our foreign debts," he declared.

"We see the permanent and just settlement of the international debt question as one of the bases for a stable world. We see general reduction in armaments as a medium to lessen taxation and threat of wars. We see the need of some provision in good times for forced unemployment in hard times. All these have a place in any real program of governmental progress.

Fundamental Principles.

"But what is needed more than anything else is to recur to the fundamental principles and to the ancient and homely virtues contained in the old Virginia bill of rights.

"If you apply these to the modern world, most of the social and economic maladjustments and political futilities would start to clear up.

"These bid us to quit looking to Washington so much to police us and cure everything by piling law on law, thus converting government into an overloaded machine and an overpowered tyrant. * * * We must get back to these enduring things which have been hammered out on the forge of experience and tested in the furnace of time."

The method of approach is the great problem facing the South to turn its recent extraordinary growth and undeveloped natural resources into "an industrial future of undreamed-of proportions," the governor said.

"The New South already is rising to the opportunities," he declared. "Industrialism entered the South looking for cheap labor and big profits, but today the attitude is changing. The industrialists are becoming just as anxious as their most enlightened critics to get rid of those ills and irregularities that developed with the sudden rise.

Prefer Honest Politics.

"They prefer honest and intelligent to corrupt and ignorant politics. They prefer satisfied to unsatisfied labor. They are recognizing that exploited child labor, underpaid labor or unemployed labor endangers the entire system. They are opposed to illiteracy. They have learned that sound welfare work, good living conditions, and fair dealing all pay.

"While I foresee, as does every one, this tremendous industrial growth in the South, still I hope we will not see the civilization of the South become predominantly industrial. It seems to me that the essential affections of the South are still largely for the soil and that the spirit of the old plantation is still strong."

Gov. Pollard, who introduced Gov. Ritchie, said he had been instructed to say nothing about politics, but he "wanted to complain to those who arranged the meeting for separating him from Gov. Ritchie, because unless we wets and drys can nget together the Democrats can not hope to win the next election.

"Born in Virginia, as Gov. Ritchie was, is a fine start in politics," the governor said. "Reelected over and over again as Gov. Ritchie has been in the State of Maryland, there is reason to believe he will be reelected over and over again unless the people of his country call him to the White House.

"Them's not politics; them's facts," Gov. Pollard said.

Praise for Byrd.

Gov. Ritchie prefaced his address by saying he was glad to be in the State of his nativity, and "glad to be in the State of former Gov. Byrd. No honor within the gift of Virginia or the Nation is too great for Harry Flood Byrd."

The meeting was attended by many visiting members of Rotary, Kikanis and Lions clubs. Among those present was Charles K. Brown, of Staunton, governor of the Fifty-sixth Rotary International District. He came here from Durham, N. C., where last night he attended a meeting honoring Sydney Paschall, of London, international president of Rotary.

The meeting was presided over by Joseph H. Harrison, president of the Richmond Rotary Club.

Notary clubs of Rappahannock, Kilmarnock, White Stone, Newport News, Williamsburg, Wytheville, Staunton, Cape Charles, Baltimore and Oxford, N. C., were represented.

ditor and personnel officer, is chairman of the solicitation committee.

After twenty employes fo the sanitary division had refused to sign the pledge, Mr. Gordon went to see each of them individually, he said, and told them that while the contribution was officially voluntary, that unofficially it was evident that those who did not sign would likely suffer indirect disciplinary action such as the loss of annual leave, reduced efficiency rating and refusal of appeals for stepups and reclassification.

All the employes in two other departments of the District government are reported to have been instructed by their chiefs to sign the pledge, whether they wanted to or not.

Decision to write the several divisional chairmen advising them of their recommendation concerning Government workers who live out of town was reached by the executive commtitee of the departmental committee on unemployment relief at a meeting yesterday in the offices of the Civil Service Commission.

Second Contacts Planned.

The letters will advise "that employes who have already been contacted and who reside in adjacent communities, be contacted again, and that all such employes be given the information that Government employes who live in communities adjacent to the District of Columbia may specify the outside agency to which they wish their pledges allocated in whole or in part."

Thirteen such outside agencies in 11 communities, "concerning which information has been received by the general committee," were enumerated in a list submittd the chairman.

Improved coordination of agencies working to provide jobs for disabled World War veterans who are on the Government's compensation rolls was the objective of a meeting held yesterday at the American Red Cross Building. E. C. Babcock, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, led the discussion.

As a result, the United States Employment Service, at Eighteenth and D streets northwest, will be made the clearing house for the task of obtaining jobs for the 500 compensable men of this city. Cooperating agencies will furnish weekly reports reports, with names and addresses of

Will Compile Directory.

It further was decided to compile a directory for the guidance of disabled veterans, giving the names of individuals and organizations to which disabled veterans should apply for family relief, hospitalization, compensation, transportation, clothing, lodging, and other forms of relief.

Participating in the discussion were ter I. McCoy, and MissoETAOINETE Gen. F. R. Keefer, former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, and Miss Bessie Craney, representing the Red Cross; Dr. E. G. ## Compensation Cut Shown in Virginia

Highway Unit Uses Own Fund Rather Than Insurance.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The State Highway Department during the last fiscal year saved the State approximately $87,000 by carrying its workmen's compensation insurance itself, Ernest F. Appeal, the department's office manager, reported today.

The department's expenses in compensation cases totaled $61,163.83, and a policy covering the period would have cost approximately $139,186.78, he said, setting the saving at approximately 56 per cent.

The total cost was distributed as follows: Compensation for employes, $42,007.76; medical, $14,708.42; legal, $575; medical paid from district offices, $2,671.82; attending physician, $1,200; total, $61,163.83.

HARRISON ATTACKS HIGH TARIFF RATES

Raps Smoot's Views, Blaming Excessive Duties in Loss of Foreign Trade.

(Associated Press.)

It is "inconceivable" to Senator Harrison that Senator Smoot can not see the "irretrievable damage done to this country by the excessive increased rates written in the Smoot-Hawley tariff act."

The Mississippian said this in a statement issued yesterday through the Democratic national committee. He characterized Senator Smoot's attributing decreased foreign trade to world business troubles as a "spurious defense" which "will fool no one."

Senator Smoot yesterday issued a statement setting forth his belief that the tariff act had nothing to do with decreased foreign trade and that it would be "suicide" to revise the act downward in the next Congress.

"The American people know," Senator Harrison said, "that when the President called the Congress together in 1929 for a limited revision of the tariff, not only this country, but the world, with few exceptions, was experiencing normal prosperity; that when Senator Smoot and his coconspirators began to write the rates higher, under no Republican theory of protection or according to no ascertainment of facts with reference to difference in cost of production here and abroad, they aroused a storm of protests, not only from more than a thousand of our most reputable economists, but from practically every foreign nation."

"It is remarkable," he said, "with what degree of accuracy these American economists pointed out the effects that would assuredly come if the proponents of the tariff legislation should persist and carry out their scheme."

Senator Harrison said the act of other countries in raising their tariff walls was a retaliation against the United States.

"We started the procession," he added, "we forced the foreign countries' actions; we are guilty of this tariff war and we are suffering today from the national folly."

Convention Sought For West Virginia

Live Stock Marketing Body Meets in Clarksburg and Votes Action.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 24.—The West Virginia Live Stock Marketing Association, at its annual convention here today, voted unanimously to invite the Producers Cooperative Commission Association of Pittsburgh to hold its 1933 convention in West Virginia. Invitations have been issued by Jacksons Mill, Wheeling and Spencer.

The Pittsburgh Association includes members in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana. Howard M. Gore, State commissioner of agriculture, urged State producers to continue their present policy of increasing the quality of their feeder cattle and holding feeder calf sales. He also asked definite steps for sending groups of selected show cattle to the Baltimore and Columbus shows.

The West Virginia Wool Association today decided after debate to refer to the board of directors with power to act within 30 days the question of remaining as a State body or merging with the national cooperative group.

High School Bids At Annapolis Low

$400,000 Provided, Price of $272,700 Offered for Contract.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—The school building commission of Anne Arundel County received the surprisingly low bid of $272,700 for erection of a new high school building for Annapolis. The bid was by the Henry Miller Construction Co., of Baltimore. Award of contract was deferred pending tabulation of several bids and the architect's report.

Sixteen other firms from Baltimore, Annapolis, Washington and elsewhere submitted bids, which ranged as high as $367,863, bid by Bean Bros., Annapolis. There was only one Washington bidder, Bradbury & Mosler, whose estimate was $310,000.

Estimated cost of structure is $350,000, although $400,000 was made available out of a fund of $1,000,000 authorized by an act of the Legislature for general school building purposes throughout the county. Contracts for a high school building at Glen Burnie, and Stanton (Negro) school, in Annapolis, have previously been awarded, and that for the southern section, or Traceys Landing, West River neighborhood, is pending final selection of site, over which there has been much controversy.

Japan Seen as Ruining U. S. Trade With China

Baltimore, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Judge Paul Linebarger, legal adviser to the National Government of China and for eighteen years legal adviser to Dr. Sun Yat Sen, foundre of the Chinese republic, said here today that Japan's aggression in Manchuria is pushing ajar the open door to China trade and cutting off an American export market of great potential value.

Judge Linebarger, who was United States Federal judge in the Philippines until 1907, said he was in the United States on a special mission to arrange wheat and other credit loans direct from the United States Government to China.

script and later was editor of that newspaper.

In 1910 he became president and director of the Boston Publishing Co. and editor of the Herald, a post which he filled until the end of 1928.

From a study of the new British schedules, President Hoover has learned that about 1.6 per cent of American exports to that country will be affected. He feels that the increases there are a domestic prerogative of the London government and should not be criticized by the United States.

If England's abandonment of the gold standard has resulted or should result in such a decrease in the cost of British production as to throw American tariff rates out of balance, he believes the discrepancy can be corrected through the Tariff Commission.

The commission, after making a study, can recommend changes in the American levies up to 50 per cent of their present level. Such new rates become effective only upon formal promulgation by the President.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Robert Lincoln O'Brien, of Boston, the new chairman of the Tariff Commission, was on a train coming to Hanover today at the time his appointment was announced. He gave a dinner tonight to Dartmouth professors in whose classes he has annually given courses of lectures in December.

He said he would accept the appointment and assume his duties December 1. He said, "the appointment came as a great surprise to me as I had not sought that office nor any public office in city, State or Nation. I was very much surprised when the President sent for me and told me that he wanted me to accept this office. I did not dissent."

Mr. O'Brien said he would resign as president of the Middlesex Club and of the Merchants Club of Boston.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Talks With Roosevelt

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Representative from Florida, chatted with Gov. Franklin D. Roovelt, of New York, here today for some time but after the visit neither would comment on their conversation.

No inkling was given of what was discussed between the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, who several times sought the Presidency of the United States, and Gov. Roosevelt, who is prominently mentioned as the Democratic Presidential nominee.

Man, Suspect in '3-X' Slayings, Is Released

Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A man, first suspected by police of being "3-X," mystery slayer, was released a few hours after he walked into a Nassau County police station today when inspector John Gallagher, of Queens, identified him as Richard Eagan, 33, of Flushing.

Police said he was not "3-X," the name used by the supposed slayer of two male companions of women in suburban hold-ups seventeen months ago.

Hoosier Democrats Name Taggart's Son

Made National Committeeman in Place of Greathouse, Deceased.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Another Taggart from Indiana launched his political career today. He is Thomas D. Taggart, French Lick hotel owner and only son of the late United States Senator Thomas Taggart, who for years was a power in the Democratic party.

The son's political position is that of Indiana Democratic national committeeman. The State committee elected him today by acclamation to fill the vacancy created by the death of Charles A. Greathouse.

The selection of Mr. Taggart was unopposed following the withdrawal of L. G. Elingham, Fort Wayne publisher. Taggart, in accepting the post, read a telegram from Ellingham pledging support. It is the first political job ever held or sought by Mr. Taggart, who is 48 years old. Politics are not new to him, however.

Walker, in California, Studies Mooney Case

San Francisco, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Coming to San Francisco to ask his friend, Gov. James Rolph, jr., to grant a pardon to Tom Mooney, Mayor James J. Walker spent half his first day explaining that he is in California only as a private citizen and the other half studying the case he is to join in presenting to the governor next Tuesday.

As soon as a series of receptions was concluded the New York mayor went into an extended conference with other lawyers, including Frank P. Walsh, Aaron Sapiro and local counsel. Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the Mayor of New York and Governor of California will confer here on plans for the hearing.

Jail Term Asked in Mafia Cases.

Palermo, Sicily, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Two hundred alleged members of the Mafia Terrorist Society, sitting in an enormous cage, today heard the public prosecutor ask the jury to sentence them to a total of 900 years in jail. The defense will begin tomorrow and sentences will be imposed Christmas Eve.

Harlan Mine Case Jury Choice Begun

Continuance Denied Man Charged With Murder in Death of 4.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A request for a continuance having been denied by Judge Henry R. Prewitt, the defense and prosecution in the murder trial of W. B. Jones, Harlan County mine union leader, today turned their attention toward selecting a jury.

From questions asked of prospective jurors, the State indicated it would demand the death penalty for Jones, one of 10 men whose cases were sent here on change of venue from Harlan County following their indictment there as a result of the slaying of four men in a clash between striking miners and deputy sheriffs near Evarts last May 5.

A Montgomery County grand jury yesterday reindicted the 10 men on charges of murder and conspiracy after the Harlan County indictments had been quashed because of alleged flaws.

Execution of Crowley Set for Week of Jan. 18

Albany, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The Court of Appeals today fixed the date of the execution of Francis (Two Gun) Crowley of New York for the week of January 18, 1932. Crowley was convicted of murdering a Nassau County policeman.

As electrocutions at Sing Sing, where Crowley is confined, usually are conducted on Thursday nights, Crowley probably will go to the chair on January 21. Crowley's pal in banditry and homicide, Rudolph Duringer, who killed his sweetheart, Virginia Brannen, is sentenced to die on December 10.

Parisian Actress Tells Story of Her Abduction

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Rose Amy, Parisian actress who was reported missing last Saturday, reappeared today with a story of abduction and robbery, details of which the police did not disclose.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Annapolis to Fight For Army School

Trade Body Asks Help of Congressional Group to Halt Removal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—The Chamber of Commerce of Annapolis has adopted resolutions calling on Maryland's senators and representatives to use every effort to prevent removal of the Army Tank School from Fort George G. Meade next spring, as proposed, and also to secure a Federal appropriation for deepening and widening the channel and harbor of Annapolis, to facilitate successful maneuvering of large ships.

The latter resolution was prompted by recent visit here of the U. S. S. Constitution, the skipper of which brought her to anchor 5 miles out from the city because of reported inadequate harbor facilities to reach the Naval Academy dock.

The chamber has also renewed its fight against alleged excessive rates for gas and electric current charged by the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Power Co., a subsidiary of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad. A committee was named to draw a petition for presentation to the Public Service Commission. The issue was before that body about a year ago, however, and the complainants lost their appeal. The local business organization points out that in Washington the rate for electric energy is 4.2 cents per kilowatt hour, and in Baltimore, 6.7 cents, whereas Annapolis consumers are taxed 8.3 cents.

Cell Mate Accuses Suspect in Murder

Holds Mountaineer in Jail Admitted Killing Man.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 24.—A surprise witness was introduced by the State here today in the trial of Boyd Oliver, mountaineer, for the murder of Jacob Butts, a neighbor, last September, when it put on the stand Joseph Carr, Oliver's cell mate in jail here, who testified Oliver had told him nervously and restlessly that he (Oliver) "killed Butts, and I'm glad of it."

Carr also quoted Oliver as saying officers would never find the weapon he had used because he had hidden it in a tree trunk. Carr said Oliver charged Butts had been too friendly with Mrs. Oliver and gave that as a reason for his alleged killing. Carr has been held here since confessing embezzlement.

The State concluded its case shortly after Carr had testified. Judge D. H. Rodgers emphasized, as the defense opened, that the "unwritten law" had no standing in this case. The defense has called 22 witnesses, and the case is not expected to be concluded before late Wednesday evening.

ROBINSON AND RASKOB.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, reminds his Democratic friends that the paramount subject to be considered by Congress relates to economic questions. He says he has no wish to submerge or obscure these questions by pushing forward the prohibition controversy. He does not expect any prohibition legislation.

This is a polite but pointed reminder to Chairman Raskob, who is running amuck on the subject of prohibition. Between the lines of Senator Robinson's statement can be read a declaration of war.

If the Democratic party is to do its share in shaping legislation to restore prosperity it can not afford to waste time in squabbling over prohibition. An emergency confronts the country. Democrats are as badly in need of better times as Republicans, and President Hoover is striving to bring about better times for all, without regard to party or section. He is entitled to the support of all parties in this endeavor.

To the extent that the Democratic party is bedeviled by the wet and dry quarrel during the coming session of Congress it will be handicapped in devoting its attention to the vital task of making better times by enacting suitable legislation. If there was ever a time when nonpartisan statesmanship was required in Congress, it is now. Yet the prospects are that partisanship and factionalism will deal a blow at the people by delaying legislation.

The struggle between the parties for control of the Government threatens to degenerate into sordid guerrilla warfare in which the last thought of the combatants will be the public welfare. Not only between parties but within parties there is developing an ugly temper, as well as an utter selfishness, threatening to bring to naught any plan for economic relief. Reckless schemes for filling the Treasury by unjust taxation, in order to squander enormous sums for the sake of gaining political advantage, must be throttled by the combined votes of Democrats and Republicans if the people are to be protected.

In the White House is a man who will not take part in wringing excessive taxes from the people to squander the proceeds. If Congress should attempt to saddle the country with a dole or a huge Federal gift to States which might fail to attend to their own unemployed, it may be expected that President Hoover would veto the bill.

Some political observers are predicting that the next session will bring forth a remarkable series of vetoes by a President who is determined to protect the Treasury against reckless raids. These observers believe that the country will applaud these vetoes, and that President Hoover's prestige will be greatly enhanced by his defense of the people. This opinion, however, may prove incorrect if the two great parties develop in their representatives a sense of public responsibility and a fair degree of statesmanship.

The attitude of Senator Robinson is that of a statesman. Mr. Garner, prospective Speaker, also stands for the broader view of cooperative statesmanship. There is plenty of room for the expression of stalwart partisan opinion while cooperating for the public welfare. Chairman Raskob, on the other hand, throws a firebrand into Democratic ranks, and seems to have no realization of the fact that depression is nonpartisan and its cure a problem for Democrats as well as Republicans.

The difference between Chairman Raskob and Senator Robinson is more than a difference over prohibition. It is a cleavage that goes to the heart of Democratic policy. Senator Robinson would have the Democratic party meet and deal with the national emergency. Chairman Raskob would fritter away the party's solidarity in a fruitless squabble over prohibition.

THE FARM BOARD.

The Farm Board's "confession" before the Senate committee on agriculture will doubtless lead to a renewal of the demand that the board close up shop and leave the farmer to his own fate. That the board indulged in a costly blunder is undeniable. It can not expect to escape public criticism as a result of its tremendous losses. Yet the board has a right to expect that the public will not exercise snap judgment and condemn its entire program for benefiting the farmer because its attempts at stabilization went awry.

Until this current report by Chairman James C. Stone the board has not revealed the magnitude of its losses. No definite figure can yet be fixed, because the board still has vast holdings of wheat and cotton, not to mention the coffee obtained by trading with Brazil. But the fact that the board paid an average price of nearly 82 cents per bushel for its wheat and more than 16 cents per pound for its cotton, while those commodities are now selling at about 55 cents and 6 cents respectively, is sufficient to illustrate the folly of trying to stabilize those industries by buying up their surplus output.

The board virtually admits the failure of its former policy by stating that "stabilization operations can not maintain prices continuously." "So long as surpluses continue to pile up," the report continued, "artificial measures can only temporarily offset their effect." No doubt the board has learned its lesson. Regardless of whether Congress curtails its powers, the board may be expected to remain out of the commodity markets in the future.

The other side of the picture is too frequently neglected. Most of the board's energy has been devoted to the development of agricultural marketing machinery which the farmer can operate to his own advantage. The board considers this step "the best approach yet offered to bring about permanent improvement of American agriculture." More than 730,000 farmers are now allied with cooperative associations which are handling their own produce, giving farmers the advantage of larger profits and consumers more direct service at lower prices.

It would be unfortunate if the failure of the board's stabilization program were allowed to overshadow the importance of this development. One phase of the agricultural program that Congress launched two years ago proved to be unsound and the other is turning out well. Common sense suggests that stabilization activities be discontinued, either by an amendment to the law or an understanding with the Farm Board, and that the development of agricultural marketing machinery be allowed to go forward.

INSURGENT IMPOTENCE.

Insurgents in the new House of Representatives will meet today to outline their "program" for the coming session. On Friday the so-called Progressives of the Senate will assemble for a similar purpose. Senator Norris has visions of welding the two groups into a compact bloc of trouble makers.

Most of the insurgents are Republican renegades, but a few have been drawn from Democratic ranks. This heterogeneous clique of radicals plans to formulate a program that will obstruct the wheels of legislation whenever possible. It is impossible, of course, for them to enact their own measures. At best they can command no more than about 45 votes out of 531, so their tactics will be to annoy and harass the parties they were elected to support. Any program adopted is merely for advertising purposes.

It does not appear that the insurgents will occupy as important a place in the legislative machinery during the coming session as they did in the Seventy-first Congress. When the Democratic party in the Senate was weak it allowed itself to be led into mischief-making by Republican turncoats. In the last election the strength of the Democratic party in both houses was substantially increased. Indications are that the Democrats will organize the House and choose John N. Garner as Speaker. It is improbable that the Democrats under these more favorable circumstances will submit to domination by this handful of radicals who call themselves Republicans when they seek reelection. If the coalition of Democrats and insurgents continues to operate in the Senate it can bring only discredit upon the Democratic party in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

The insurgents are no more in sympathy with Democratic than with Republican principles. In reality they are Socialists masquerading under the guise of progressive leaders in their respective parties. The insurgents are demanding raids upon the rich in order to reap votes from the deluded poor. They are the champions of Government interference in business, bureaucracy, bond issues to provide a dole, a subsidy to agriculture and various other nostrums that are abhorrent to the American system of government.

It is unthinkable that the Democratic party on the eve of a national election will allow itself to be identified with this socialistic clique. On vitally important legislation the two great parties will unite. On partisan questions they will checkmate each other, with no resulting legislation. The insurgents will be loud and vociferous, but they will not be in a position to compel or wheedle men of either great party to support their nostrums.

HAWAII'S PROGRESS.

Owing to the large consumption of Hawaiian sugar and pineapples in the United States, the islands this year enjoy a favorable trade balance of $10,000,000, according to the annual report of the governor. The production of both these chief crops increased, overcoming in some measure lower prices. The value of sugar exported from the Territory to the mainland was $55,233,469. The pineapple pack reached a total of 12,672,000 cases, an increase of 30 per cent over any previous year. The islands have not encountered severe reverses because of the depression.

Hawaii has experienced a remarkable growth in population during recent years, the total inhabitants now numbering 368,336, which is an increase of 44 per cent since 1920. Of this total 81.4 are native born, showing that the growth of population is not largely due to immigration. Ten years ago the native born constituted but 66 per cent of the population.

The sugar industry supplies employment for more than 56,000 persons.

A notable advance in education was made last year by the development of the territorial normal school into a full-fledged teachers' college affiliated with the University of Hawaii. This will provide definite improvement in teacher training. School enrollment has now reached a total of 76,634. The governor notes an increased interest in public education on the part of both teachers and the community during the last year, due to the better adaptation of education to the actual life of the students.

Hawaii's tourist business suffered less than that of many resorts. The islands are looking forward to a growing number of visitors this year owing to the improved steamship service provided by Canadian and American lines. The new and larger vessels now make the trip from the Pacific Coast to Honolulu in four or five days.

Hawaii takes pride in announcing that during the last year the Territory paid into the Federal Treasury a greater amount in internal revenue than any one of the thirteen States of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah or Vermont.

DRIVE BACK BUREAUCRACY

From an Address by JOHN SPARGO Before the Federation of American Business.

The most reactionary of all the reactionaries in the land, and the most dangerous, are the self-styled "Progressives" in the United States Senate and their followers. They have learned nothing from the history of any nation, least of all their own. Notwithstanding the universal experience that government in business means both bad business and bad government, these reactionaries masquerading as "Progressives" continue to urge large extensions of Government ownership and management in one industry after another. For them past experience is without meaning and offers no guidance for the future. The future itself is for them an uncharted sea upon which they would embark in frail cockleshells of Utopian dreams.

In a few days the Congress of the United States will meet for a new session. Never before in the history of the Nation was there so much apprehension and dread of the possible results of congressional action. Misguided meddling by Congress is the one great and outstanding peril of the hour. We have a splendid opportunity to unite the patriotism and intelligence of the Nation to crush the ugly treason of making political capital out of a national disaster.

Drive government back to its natural and proper bounds. That is the demand of genuine, effective progressivism today. Let there be no hesitation or faltering in asserting that. Paternalism and its twin evil, bureaucracy, are reactionary. We are like the motorist who has discovered that he has gone far on the wrong road, and knows that in order to make any progress toward his chosen destination he must first of all go back to the point where he made the wrong turn. To make progress he must go back. There is no other way.

So must we go back to the economic and social principles and ideals from which we have departed if we are to attain the visioned goal of a life in which economic plentitude and security are joined to political and personal freedom. We must end the usurpation of the rights and duties of the States by the Federal Government. We must insist that all government, State as well as Federal, shall keep within the bounds set for it, obedient servant of the people, daring not to aspire to be their master.

The competition of government with its citizens in industry and business is always unfair competition. It is also always attended by economic and political disaster. Whoever will examine the facts in a spirit of candor, with a mind free from prejudice and open only to the truth, will see that in the present economic crisis industrial and business depression is in direct ratio to the extent of government invasion of the proper sphere of private enterprise.

We take an impregnable position when we demand freedom for the creative genius of our people, and insist that government be kept subordinate to the people. Whether as individuals or as corporate groups the citizens of this Nation can always be trusted to manage and develop its economic resources with infinitely greater efficiency than any Government bureaucracy could possibly do it. And I use the word "efficiency" here in its largest and noblest sense, thinking not merely, nor even mainly, of tonnages and profits and dividend payments, but of the living standards of those who labor, their security against want, the happiness and well-being of the people as a whole.

TELEPHONES IN ATHENS.

The installation of an automatic telephone system is one of the outstanding developments in Athens this year. The inauguration of the center of the new telephone company was greeted by the population with great relief. Great delays were experienced with the old system, according to the Christian Science Monitor. It was not unusual for a subscriber to lose half an hour or so before a response to his call could be obtained. The installation of the automatic telephone cable was inaugurated a year ago by a German company, and so far about 3,000 subscribers have been provided with the new numbers, and further plans are being pushed forward to complete the work by laying underground cables.

If the King Has Time Only for Play, Knaves Will Do the Ruling.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN a land that is free every citizen is privileged to play the role of king.

Do you know who rules America? Not the lawyers who make the laws, for they have no power to require obedience. Not the officers who arrest offenders, for they have no power to punish. Not the judges who preside in courts, for they have no authority to determine the fact of guilt or innocence.

The true rulers are the twelve obscure men who determine whether the law shall be enforced.

The two houses of Congress make a law; the President signs it; the Supreme Court upholds it; armed officials arrest those who violate it; judges sit in solemn and awful dignity to enforce it.

And yet twelve men from the humblest walks of life defeat the law and make it useless.

They are the final arbiters. They are the true rulers. They alone have power to make the law effective—to discourage or encourage lawlessness, to fix the standard of conduct to support or defeat progress and decency, to establish the ideals of generation to say which element in society shall direct the destiny of the Nation.

When you evade jury service you say, in effect: "I am too important to rule America. Find some ignorant man dominated by the prejudices of ignorance, who is stupid enough to be fooled by the trickery of lawyers and the perjury of partisan witnesses. Let him fix the ethical standards of my generation, establish customs to guide my children and choose the course of this civilization. I have more important things to do."

Beyond any doubt, the jury shapes our civilization. It releases killers and other men kill without fear of punishment. It refuses to convict corrupt officials and corruption is epidemic. It supports unjust claims and extortion becomes a profession. It refuses justice to the humble, and common men lose faith in the courts and the Government. It refuses to enforce the law and a generation is made lawless.

Observe the men who sit on juries and you observe your masters.

That the jury system has faults is no excuse for those who avoid service. Reforms are not made from without. The man who cleans a house is not the passer-by, but the one who moves in where he can see the dirt.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

When the House Meets.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Washington is likely to see a lively row in connection with the organization of the House next month. Though the Democrats have a nominal plurality sufficient to elect a Speaker, a substantial liberalization of the present rules will be demanded, it is forecast, and will have to be granted before the election can be encompassed. That is the position of the Progressive Republicans, and is said to be shared by a considerable number of Democrats—the entire bloc being numerous enough, it is calculated, to deadlock the proceeding.

There can be no question that the rules should be liberalized and the House reestablished in its traditional dignity and constitutional capacity. It is patent, of course, that a body as unwieldy as the House could not successfully function under the privilege of unlimited debate, such as practically obtains in the Senate. The House must have a modus operandi designed to meet its requirements. But that does not mean that our representatives in Congress should be reduced to the rubber-stamp status of carrying out the decisions and wishes of a rules committee that has usurped dictatorial powers.

The President and Congress.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

As prospective Speaker, Representative Jack Garner, of Texas, has told what the attitude of the Democratic majority of the next House will be toward the President. Proposals from the White House will neither be "automatically damned" nor "automatically sanctified." They will be judged on their merits. There will be no sabotage, such as the Republicans practiced when they captured Congress in 1918 and deliberately resolved to kill any measure that might redound to the credit of President Wilson or the Democrats. There will be no political truce, such as Mr. Raskob propounded with idealistic fervor while the returns of the Democratic sweep were rolling in a year ago.

The position as stated by Mr. Garner is, of course, correct. It ought to be the position of the majority party of Congress, and the minority party, and of every senator and representative, at all times. Unfortunately, it isn't. Politicians, being human, are bound to weigh the political consequences of matters that come before them. They are bound to consider the probable effect on the party's chances and their own individual political fortunes. There are exceptions, to be sure, but too rare to be anything other than a marginal notation in the record.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Predicts Dry Republican Stand and Observes That Democratic Party Balks at the Jug as an Emblem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The half-and-half policy is "out," in American politics. The Republican party platform will be dry, not wet, and not a straddle. Therefore, Senator Fess is absolutely right as to his "fatal blunder" position, and he is the right man for the National Committee Chairman. A straddle would ruin the party. It's main strength lies in its dry position.

Schafer and LaGuardia are not Republicans in any true sense, and Britten is a wet, first, and Republican afterward. The trio are merely carrying out the latest wet propaganda drive, this time for a so-called referendum. The cry for a referendum seems to carry to the unthinking an idea that the people are being denied the right to vote on the question. This is not true. A real referendum, and the only effective one, since the Constitution does not provide for any other, lies before them in the next election. They may go into every district in the United States and elect wet representatives—if they can. That is the only way!

But, that doesn't suit them. Why? Because they haven't enough votes. They probably haven't half enough votes. So, they want to gather in a lot of dry votes for a wet cause. How may this be done? Answer, by the well known referendum methods, straw vote methods, and a poll in which most of the dry voters, notably careless and satisfied with conditions as they are, will stay at home. A vote, the total of which is perhaps only a minor fraction of the whole number of eligible voters, as has been the case in many referendums.

Fortunately, this referendum grand stand play is getting to be "old stuff," too. It deceives almost no one especially no astute politician, and the real leaders of the Republican party are not going to commit political suicide by a change in policy or a change in Chairman, at this time.

The wet's hollow cry for a referendum is equivalent to a football team, defeated in a crucial game, crying out for their opponents to play the game over again, under different rules.

But the real milk in the cocoanut is a much deeper and more subtle idea. These so-called Republicans who are more wet than Republicans, and who are clamoring for Fess's scalp and a referendum, have no real hope of swinging the Republican party to the wet side. Under the advice and guidance of the wet management, however, they are trying to make the Democrats think they will get an immense Republican vote by going wet. For, be it remembered, the wets are having the devil's own time trying to get the Democratic party to adopt the whisky jug as its party emblem. M. HUGH IRISH

Says the Unemployed Want Work and Not Charity—Offers Plan for Giving Them Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Any one will admit that the only wise way to help a man who is out of work is to give him a chance to earn some money by working for it. A self-respecting individual will accept charity only when his condition is desperate, and, even so, he is harmed by yielding to charity.

A great many Government employes have homes in Washington and the suburbs, and there is always something needing to be done about these homes. Ordinarily the householder attends to these tasks himself, because that is half the pleasure of a home. Now, assuming that the powers behind the Community Chest are sincere in their manifestations, why not permit the householder to pledge his day's salary, or more, to be paid in fair wages to an individual to be named by the Community Chest for work for which he would not ordinarily be hired?

MARTIN LEATHERMAN.

Demands Itemized Account of How Charity Funds Are Spent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The present panhandling or begging program a la Community Chests is all wrong. Too much gratuitous psychology has been worked on us during the past two years. Work, and not charity, is what the unemployed want. How many cities with a Community Chest get a detailed auditor's report as to how the money collected has been spent; how much is paid out in salaries; how many are on the salary list; how much goes to the poor; how much to hospitals, kindergartens, &c.; how much to the unemployed (and how do they get it); how much is paid for commissions; how much is spent for other expenses, outside of the people for whom it is intended?

The paying public is entitled to know these details—and I mean details, not glittering generalities.

SELF-EXAMINATION.

So fair the past has been, now it has gone
I strangely think it vain to journey on.
It seems to me, bemoaning pleasures,
There is no future splendor to be known.

And yet time was those lost joys I deplore
Comprised the future that I labored for.
I viewed the world without too many fears,
Nor was I then afraid to trust the years.

I faced tomorrow, hoping it would be
A day that might bring happiness to me.
Came all those joys o'er which in grief I bow.
Then shall I fear to face the future now?

Once I had faith in every time of doubt.
Why then do I walk dolefully about,
Discouraged by the cold winds and the rain,
Afraid the sun will never shine again?

GRANDI MUM ON TALK WITH MONEY BARONS

Exchange With Mussolini Is Prelude to Meeting at Lamont Home.

New York, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—Following an exchange of cablegrams with Premier Mussolini, Signor Dino Grandi, youthful Italian foreign minister, spent more than an hour in conference with a group of America's most powerful bankers and financial experts today.

Though no statement as to the nature of the conversations was forthcoming, it was said that important developments in Italian financing may result.

The conference was held at the home of Thomas W. Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., and Morgan was among those present. The Morgan company has been prominently associated with Italian financing ever since the Fascist government went into power.

Rockefeller, Jr., Present.

Among those attending the conference were John D. Rockefeller, jr., Owen D. Young, Elihu Root, Thomas Cochran, Marshall Field, Myron C. Taylor, S. Parker Gilbert, reparations expert; Gates McGarrah, president of the Bank for International Settlements at Basel; George Baker, president of the First National Bank; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, George Whitney, Winthrop W. Aldrich, George Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank; John W. Garrett, American Ambassador to Italy, and the Italian Ambassador, De Martino.

When Signor Grandi emerged from the Lamont home he declined to discuss the conversations.

"I was there as a guest," he said. "It would not be proper for me to discuss what was said."

Unrecognized on Stroll.

Grandi's stay in New York, so far, has been a period of strenuous activity for him.

He did not go to bed until 4 o'clock this morning, having spent long hours in his hotel suite conferring with Ambassador de Martino and other advisers. Before he retired cablegrams were sent to Rome. Grandi was up at 7 a. m. and spent an hour studying messages received from Mussolini.

Indicating his dislike of the constant police guard that has been placed over him, the bearded minister slipped away for 20 minutes today and strolled the streets of New York, unrecognized. Upon his return he expressed satisfaction at being "a free man once again."

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Granted Change in Name

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger, who was acquitted last May of killing her husband in Nice, France, was authorized today by Judge Edwin O. Lewis to change her name to Charlotte Isabel Nixon.

"Notoriety and embarrassment" attached to the name of Nixon-Nirdlinger justifies the change, Judge Lewis ruled. The decree permits changing the names of the young widow's children, Frederick Goodwin Nixon-Nirdlinger, jr., 4, and Charlotte Lou, 2. The boy's name becomes Charles Richard Nixon, and the girl's Charlotte Nixon.

Cermak to Visit Capital Soon to Push Party Bids

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Encouraged by reports brought back from the East by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the bipartisan committee seeking both political conventions for Chicago, Mayor Anton J. Cermak announced today he would go to Washington soon to press his city's invitation.

"All Chicago appreciates the way in which our overtures to Republican and Democratic leaders all over the country to meet here in 1932 have been received," Mayor Cermak said after his conference with Mr. Hurley and other civic leaders working on the convention committee.

Chile Proclaims President.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—President-elect Juan Esteban Montero was proclaimed president of Chile by the national congress today, which thus completed the final constitutional action to establish his election.

Guards Admit Caller, With Razor, to Grandi

New York, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—A peculiar situation arose in the hotel abode of Signor Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, this morning.

A barber, summoned to shave the diplomat, entered the suite. Before approaching Grandi, he was searched thoroughly for weapons as a safeguard against a possible attack on the foreign minister.

When it was discovered that his pockets contained no firearms, he was permitted to go into Grandi's room—with all his razors.

Gov. La Follette Also Asks Direct State Control of Some Businesses.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Philip F. La Follette, in a message to a special session of the Wisconsin Legislature today, proposed far-reaching social and political changes, including "direct control and ownership by the people" of some business enterprises.

The youthful governor addressed a session called to meet unemployment relief and other problems.

He advocated appropriations totaling nearly $17,000,000 for unemployment relief and strict regulation of hours of labor to create jobs. He suggested enactment of a compulsory unemployment insurance law, to become effective in 1933 unless industry voluntarily establishes unemployment relief systems. The governor proposed increases in State income taxes ranging up to 30 per cent on large incomes. He advised the legislature to impose taxes on chain stores and a 1 per cent tax on the cash income of corporations.

In its larger aspects, Wisconsin can not hope to achieve complete economic rehabilitation, Gov. La Follette continued. The situation requires action by the National Government, he said. But the National Government apparently will do nothing, he observed. That, however, "does not relieve us of the responsibility of using every possible effective course within our control," he said.

Discussing public ownership, the governor suggested "direct control by the people, through their municipal, State and National Governments, of enough of those instruments of common necessity to protect the public from exorbitant charges, to insure efficient service and, to the extent of the ownership, thus to effect a better distribution of the earning power of these facilities.

"I suggest the provision of machinery by the State that will enable business—and I use business in its largest sense—to govern itself. I am not here suggesting that the State take over the problem of running business. I am urging that the State enable business to govern itself intelligently, reserving at all times to the government both the power and the duty to protect the public from extortion or from combinations for other than sound public purposes."

Miss Anne Butler Wed To Edward K. Dunn.

The marriage of Miss Anne Butler, daughter of Mr. Justice and Mrs. Pierce Butler, to Mr. Edward Keith Dunn, of Baltimore, son of Mrs. Dunn and the late Mr. C. Irwin Dunn, took place yesterday at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents. Mgr. Edward L. Buckey, rector of St. Matthew's Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the members of the two families. A reception followed, with Mrs. Hoover as the guest of honor. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and autumn flowers in the autumn tints. An improvised altar was arranged in one of the drawing rooms, before which the bride and bridegroom stood and they knelt upon satin cushions before it.

The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father, and wore a gown of ivory satin made on long lines of great simplicity, the bodice with a cowl neck and the long fitted sleeves finished with rare old lace. Her tulle veil, edged with duchesse lace, was held with a cap effect with orange blossoms and a long panel of duchesse lace over it, which fell almost to the end of her long train, the tulle almost enveloping her and falling to the edge of the train. She carried a large bunch of calla lilies. Mr. Roswell C. Dunn was his brother's best man. After the reception and supper the bride and bridegroom left for their wedding trip, and will be at home after January 1 at 3915 Canterbury road, Baltimore.

CLUBWOMEN PLANT TREE AT EXERCISES

Bethesda Group Joins Honor Roll of U. S. Association; Notables Present.

Using the spade with which President Hoover planted his Washington bicentennial tree in the grounds of the White House, the Woman's Club of Bethesda yesterday afternoon joined the American Tree Association's national honor roll by planting a tree on the lawn of the clubhouse, on the old Georgetown pike.

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, of George Washington University, chairman of the District Bicentennial Commission, gave the dedicatory address after Russell T. Edwards, of the American Tree Association, had presented the spade and the certificate of membership to Mrs. Edward M. Willis, president of the Woman's Club.

Among those who witnessed the tree planting were Dr. Marvin, Mrs. Gilbert H. Grosvenor, a former president; Mrs. Lillie Stone, chairman of the grounds committee; Mrs. Ford Young, chairman of conservation, who was in charge of the program; Mrs. James H. Dorsey, of Baltimore, chairman of conservation for the Maryland Federation; Mrs. Joseph Mariot, Miss Martha Williams, the Rev. Stanley White, the Rev. Carroll Burrus, Mrs. Frank Hoadley and nearly 100 members of the club.

Mrs. Willis threw on the first earth covering the Norway spruce beside which stands a bronze marker sunk in a concrete base.

Mrs. Willis told briefly the aim of the tree planting. Mr. Edwards told of the response the women's clubs throughout the United States are giving the bicentennial true planting plan. He said the registration now exceeded nine million tree plantings.

Dr. Marvin pointed to the value of tree planting and the importance of trees to the progress of the human race. The entire membership of the club recited the tree planters' pledge.

At the afternoon session of the club, following the tree planting, Miss Lavinia Engle, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, was the speaker.

CHANGE IN BANKING POLICY FAVORED BY RESERVE GROUP

ing relatively larger reserves against deposits which turn over more rapidly.

Finally, the committee would make the reserve margin the same for both city and country banks—5 per cent—but would require rural banks to keep a larger portion of their reserves in their own vaults while granting to those banks which are closer to the great central Reserve banks the privilege of depositing a larger proportion of their reserves therein.

Never Functioned Effectively.

"In the opinion of the committee, our present system of legal requirements for member banks reserves has never functioned effectively since its inception in 1914," the report said. "It has not operated to relate the expansion of member bank credit to the needs of trade and industry, nor has it adequately reflected changes in the volume and activity of member bank credits.

"Furthermore, the committee finds that present requirements for reserves are inequitable and unfair as between individual member banks and groups of member banks and do not adequately take into account genuine differences in the character of banking in which a member may be engaged."

Before publishing its recommendations, the committee asked 6,308 member banks to submit detailed figures on their operations for May, 1931. With these reports, the committee applied its new reserve formula to the actual operations of the month. This check disclosed that combined reserves for the month under the new formula would have been 99.7 per cent of those required under existing law.

Entirely Different Picture.

But in the geographic distribution of these reserves an entirely different picture would have been presented under the new formula.

The committee found that during "the most extravagant phases of the stock market boom" in 1928-29, the reserve requirements of the existing law "failed completely during those crucial years to act as a break on the unsound use of credit."

"It is the function of reserve requirements," the report continues, "to restrain such overexpansion by making it necessary for banks to provide for additional reserves before they expand their credit. To perform this function adequately, however, it is essential that reserve requirements reflect both the volume and the activity of credit outstanding; for unsound credit conditions can develop either out of an excessive volume of bank credit in relation to the needs of trade and industry or out of an excessive amount of credit."

Turnover of Deposits.

It was the abnormally rapid turnover of deposits in New York, the committee concluded, which sustained the long stock market inflation during 1928-29. This movement might have been effectively checked in its incipiency, it is suggested, by a rigid requirement which would have forced increased bank reserves as the money began to turn over faster.

As illustrative of the same principle, the committee cited the disastrous speculative boom in Middle-Western farm lands immediately following the World War and the later tragedy in Florida.

"No formula for determining member bank reserves can prevent these speculative situations from recurring, but the proposed formula will operate to check their growth and help to bring them under control," the report said. "It will increase requirements for reserves sharply at those individual member banks whose customers are the center of the incipient speculative movement, and so set in motion forces of a restraining nature at the focal point of the disturbance."

The committee recognized that the theory of the Federal Reserve law strikes directly at these basic problems of credit control. Its recommendations, therefore, contemplate no change in the fundamental purposes of the present arrangement. They seek merely to achieve in fact what Congress intended to bring about when it established the Federal Reserve System.

"Notwithstanding • • • that existing requirements would appear to be so arranged as to make reserve requirements vary with the volume and activity of deposits, experience shows that since 1914, and especially since 1922, the proportion of primary reserves held by member banks has steadily declined in relation to the volume of member bank deposits and to their activity. This outcome has been the result of defects in the definition of reserves, in the method of determining liabilities against which reserves must be carried, and in the classification of banks and of deposits for reserve purposes."

Would Overhaul Method.

To correct these defects, the committee would completely overhaul the method of determining reserves, with a view to insuring that no expansion of credits could come about without a corresponding relative increase in banking reserves.

At present all member banks must must carry a 3 per cent reserve against time deposits and reserves against demand deposits of 13 per cent at central reserve city banks, 10 per cent at reserve city banks, and 7 per cent at so-called country banks. The new proposal drops these distinctions and recommends that all member banks carry a reserve of 5 per cent against their net deposits and, in addition, a reserve equal to 50 per cent of the average daily turnover of deposits, with a maximum total reserve of 15 per cent of gross deposits.

This plan, the committee believes, automatically would make demand deposits carry a higher reserve than time deposits and also would make more active demand deposits, such as are likely to be found in financial centers, carry a higher reserve than less active demand deposits, such as are held by a majority of country banks.

Cash in Bank Vaults.

The committee also recommended that the present law be amended so that cash in bank vaults might be counted as reserves. This was the original provision of the Federal Reserve law, but vault cash was eliminated in 1917 as a move to hasten centralization of the Nation's gold supply in the reserve system during the war emergency.

The committee would require the same reserves against Government deposits as against all others, on the ground that "the security of a deposit has nothing to do with the reserve that should be carried against it."

The whole report is based upon the position "that it is no longer the primary function of legal reserve requirements to assure or preserve the liquidity of the individual member bank."

"The maintenance of liquidity is necessarily the responsibility of bank managements," the committee declared.

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Astrological predictions for November 25: Those who have been considering travel or change should not hesitate to take the step. Favorable aspects overshadow the athlete and sportsman whose efforts will be crowned with surprising success. Lovers will find things in their favor.

The child born on this November 25 will have a proud, imperious nature, and will be extravagant in its tastes. Its ambitions will be high, no matter under what circumstances it is born, and it will climb high on the ladder of success. It will make a most loyal and sincere friend.

Born on November 25, your attitude toward life is bright and hopeful and your expectations generally take on an optimistic hue. You are not one of those who can only look through your own eyes, but you try to understand the other fellow's viewpoint. Your fair-mindedness, your great tolerance and your sympathetic understanding make you a warm and desirable friend. You have a great sense of justice and you always like to see a square deal given. No matter how undeserving a case may be, your sympathies are always aroused for the under dog.

Your ambitions may surpass your physical stamina and although the spirit may never weaken, your endurance has its limit, so you will have to learn to conserve both your physical and mental strength. You have a clear conception of what you wish to achieve, and you set to work to put in practice your ideals and ideas. Philosophy and religion will give you considerable study and thought, and they will both be inspirational and comforting to you. You were not meant for manual labor, although you are not clumsy with your hands. An opportunity to do public work will be given you, which you could fulfill both ably and nobly. Life to you is a book to read, and you do not put on the black spectacles of egotism to read it. You will give and receive much happiness during your lifetime.

Successful people born on November 25:

Henry Sargent, artist.
Arthur Sewall, shipbuilder.
Andrew Carnegie, ironmaster.
Alice Ames Winter, author and clubwoman.
Ben B. Lindsay, judge, reformer.
Ethelbert Nevin, composer.

PEONY BLIGHT AND LILAC TROUBLES.

DURING the last few weeks I have been hearing a good deal about peony blight, and all season you have been telling of the troubles you have had with old-established lilacs.

The time to fight peony blight is in the fall. It is a well-known fact that peony blight remains over winter on the old stems and possibly in the upper layer of soil about the roots of the plants. Therefore the most practical thing to do to get rid of this disease is to remove and burn the dead stems and main stalks of the plants.

The way to do this is carefully to scrape away the soil about the crowns of the plants and then with a pair of shears remove each stem, close to the root. Be careful that you do not injure the dormant eye on which you will depend for growth next spring. If the blight was very bad, remove the old soil and replace it with fresh soil from a place far removed from any peony plants.

It is also well to spray diseased plants with Bordeaux mixture at this time and again quite early in the spring before growth starts.

This last season the hybrid lilacs were in most cases far from a success. In some places the bushes seem to be gradually dying. Some of the trouble may be attributed to the lilac borer. This troublesome insect with the long name (podosesia syringa) is easily discouraged, but the process of routing the enemy must be systematically handled.

Fill a small machine oil can with carbon bisulphide. This is a heavy, colorless, volatile liquid, with fumes which are heavier than air. Start at the root and go up each stalk and whenever you detect a hole inject the carbon bisulphide. Then plug each hole at once with soap or putty to keep the fumes from escaping. Most authorities recommend two such treatments a year the first in July and the second a month later.

One word of caution in reference to the handling of the carbon bisulphide. It is a poison and must be kept out of the reach of children or other irresponsible persons, and you must understand that it is inflammable and that the vapor is dangerously explosive. So be careful not to use it in the presence of a naked light or in the neighborhood of a fire.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Molyneux daytime frock of brown jersey has an interesting shoulder yoke and zigzag incrustations.

On Caribbean Sea, Nov. 24.

WHAT is the "youngest" fur you know about—the one that expresses youthful daring in itself and in the ways it is used by clever couturiers? It's leopard skin, according to a vote taken on this question at a recent fur exhibition, where not only sweet young things, but women old enough to know their furs wisely and well, were questioned!

The chic of leopard skin is largely dependent, I think, on the fact that color is so very important these days. The rich, tawny coloring of the pelts with their black ring spots is lovely and daring in itself—and this year, when it's being combined with green and black, and even on brown and bright red, the combination is stunning. Its chic is, wel-l-l-l-l-l, sudden and dramatic, if one may describe inanimate objects in this way.

Another reason for leopard skin's popularity is that it may be used with equal smartness for country sports wear and formal town wear. You know, I'm sure, how often it is being used to line coats—for it is short-haired and supple enough to make the close-fitting linings necessary to those of us who must maintain slenderness. And then it's used to form the upper bodice half of town coats, bloused slightly, and very often with cloth sleeves on which intricate leopard cuffs are posed. 'N' the very latest idea is to make all sorts of leopard skin accessories—bags, scarf collars and even a narrow belt to wear with an evening frock, and any number of brimmed and brimless wee hats!

* * * *

The mode of jersey, especially brown jersey, for smart daytime wear, is amply justified in many cases by the use of trimming and smart details. Molyneux, for instance, used brown jersey, unrelieved by any other color, to fashion the daytime dress I illustrate today. But, as you can see, it's far from prosaic with its sleeves cut in one piece with the unusual diagonal shoulder yoke, its high neck closing with a single button, and the inverted pleats in its skirt matching the inverted pleats in the sleeves, which flare out fanwise into unexpected cuff treatments!

* * * *

And like much of the smart apparel of the season, the back view tells a different but quite as interesting story as the front! The diagonal shoulder yoke, for instance, forms a deep point in the back, the sleeves have zigzag incrustations, and the hip is molded by these same zigzags—three on one side and six on the other, just by way of being different!

* * * *

* * * *

Now a tricky negligee that you can make without cutting or fitting a single thing! Yes, that's the amazing discovery of the week, and that's the negligee that you may be sure you are going to make for yourself and a couple more for Christmas gifts. Because it is simply lovely when worn, and too easy to make for words—not one of those slithery, slinky affairs, but a negligee that ties on and stays put, comprenez? Well, better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for the illustrated leaflet telling you exactly how to make it, and just see for yourself if it isn't the best idea ever offered yet!

Au revoir!

WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK.

AN ancient proverb tells us that whenever two Greeks foregather there comes a tug of war. In Contract the same situation occurs when scintillating defense is opposed to brilliant attacking play. The winner in such combat knows that he has been in a fight, regardless of how the tide of battle may go, even as, I assume, the Greeks who gave birth to the proverb were men of mighty prowess when it came to doing things with a rope.

Today's hand is so replete with accurate play on the part of both the Declarer and the defending players that it is well worth the study even of an expert.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | Pass | 1NT(1) |
| Pass | 2NT(2) | Pass | 3NT(3) |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

1. A sound Fourth Hand bid. The hand has 3½ honor-tricks.

2. An equally sound Raise. The hand has nearly 2½ honor-tricks. Three notrump should not be bid, as partner should be given some leeway.

3. A correct try for game.

South opened the club 6, North played the 9, and East permitted this card to hold. The lead of the Knave would have brought the same situation. This was a splendid play, as East holds only a single stopper in the suit and his opponents must get in with both hearts and spades, as they have stoppers in each suit. Perhaps North holds these key cards. It can do no harm to see.

North returned the club and South won with the Ace and cleared the suit. East then cashed his three high diamonds and led a small heart to the Dummy, winning with the Ace. North on this trick played the Knave. In view of the strength shown in clubs by South, East could place the Ace of spades in the North hand; otherwise South, with a six-card suit containing 1½ honor-tricks and an outside Ace, would have had the strength to justify an Opening bid.

North's play of the heart Knave was the first step in an effort to create an entry for his partner to run his established clubs. North also had been doing some card placing and felt sure that his partner had no possible entry in spades. The Ace of diamonds in Dummy was led and on this all three discarded spades. A small heart was now led and North played the Queen to complete the unblocking and give his partner an entry with the Ten of hearts to cash his established tricks. It is, of course, clear that North did not know that South held the heart Ten, but if he did not hold it, then game was lost in any event. The unblocking play by North was very fine. East, however, still had a shot in his locker and refused to win the trick. Now North could do nothing but return a heart, and East won two more heart tricks and then threw North in with a spade, thus establishing one spade for the game-going contract.

Both attack and defense were brilliant and accurate, and in this case, as usually happens when sound strategy is combined with correct tactics, the gods of Bridge fought on the side of the heaviest battalions.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What is the Rule of Eight?

Answer: Of the 13 tricks made in the play of a hand (by Declarer and opponents) 4 are won with Aces, about 4 with other honor cards and the balance with lower cards.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

EASILY BROKEN BONES.

THERE are several disorders which cause the bones to become fragile. One is a congenital condition in which there are a combination of characteristics. The whites of the eyes have a bluish, china appearance, the bones break on slight provocation, and there is a tendency to deafness. One of the peculiarities of senility is a tendency for the neck of the femur to break. An old lady catches her toe in a rug and has a minor fall. When she is examined she is found to have fractured the femur at the neck.

The comparatively recent discovery that the bones are not so lifeless as we once thought, but that they are changing slowly and constantly, has brought to our attention several conditions of bone hitherto unsuspected, some of which are characterized by fragility. The general use of X-rays in bringing bones under observation has taught us much about the changes in these structures. However, the most striking of this group of disorders is one most commonly known as multiple myeloma.

Drs. Charles D. Center and Thomas J. Merer relate the following history: Some two years before the disease was recognized, a man developed a pain in his back which was called pyelitis. A year later he complained of a pain in his side, which was called pleurisy. Three months later he stubbed his toe on a rough place in the pavement and developed a pain in his chest. X-ray picture of the chest showed some broken ribs.

The fractures were so much out of relation to the accident that multiple myeloma was suspected. There are tests by which this disease can be diagnosed, and when they were applied, the underlying disorder was recognized. In the light of what was then found it is suspected that the attack of pain in the back, and that of supposed pleurisy, may have been due to the myeloma.

Multiple myeloma is a form of cancer of the bone marrow which develops first in one bone and then in another, and which causes the bone to break in whatever location it may develop. Since the diagnosis was made this man has suffered fracture of bones at intervals of about a month.

A friend of mine, a surgeon, had a similar experience. For several months he was supposed to be suffering from rheumatic pains in different bones and joints. Then his bones commenced fracturing. Toward the end he was bedridden on an air mattress and was handled with exceeding care, but in spite of every precaution, a bone would break every now and then.

Dr. J. P. Simonds, in discussing the case reported by Drs. Center and Merer, told of two cases he had seen. A Pullman porter, while on duty, wrenched his back. X-rays showed a fracture. More thorough examination showed multiple myeloma. A woman, riding on a street car, suffered a severe pain in her neck after the car had stopped suddenly. Examination showed she had a fracture of the back bone. Behind this fracture lay multiple myeloma.

YOU WERE BORN WITH IT.

Miss E. S. writes: 1. The doctor tells me I have gall bladder. Is that very serious?

2. What can I do to cure myself of it?

REPLY.

You quit listening too quickly. Everybody has a gall bladder except those who have lost theirs by operation. Your doctor probably told you the name of some gall bladder disease. Ask him again, and write it down. Since the answers to your questions depend on the disease, ask them of your physician.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Their Idea of Love.

DEAR Frances McDonald: A year ago this past August a wonderful friend of mine, whom I shall call Dick, brought one of his best friends to a party given at my home. From the first Al, as I will call him, and I struck up a wonderful friendship. This continued until I fell in love with him.

Each time we saw each other I noticed a wall being built between us. I was not sure of his love for me, as he never said. I asked him and he said, "I think the world of you."

Recently we held a little social gathering at my aunt's home. Al was there. All of us had quite a few highballs, I as much as he. Al was very attentive that night.

I asked Al why he hadn't been coming over so much. He tried politely to make excuses, but I accused him of lying and told him he believed me to be in love with him, so stayed away.

I told him I had gotten over loving him and asked him if he were glad. He replied, "I am glad in a way." I asked him if we had kept on could he ever have cared for me and he remarked that it was the easiest thing he could ever do. He told me that even though he shouldn't kiss me he just couldn't help himself because whenever he was near me he just wanted to do that.

After the party Al and I drove to my home. He came in for a while. It was then that Al lost his head and so did I. He left immediately after. I told my girl friend about it and both came to the conclusion that he must love me. Next night Dick came to see me. Dick said, "You will never see Al again." Dumfounded, I asked him why. Dick told me that Al had been drunk, didn't know what he was doing, but I don't see how. Both of us had four drinks and I know I was far from being intoxicated. He said Al thought it for my sake best to stay away. I'm not ashamed of what took place because I love him, always will. Though when I think of never seeing him again I nearly go crazy. Al told Dick he didn't think any less of me; that he was still crazy about me—as a sister. A sister! Goodness knows I didn't want that. I wanted his love. He also told Dick that if he were asked to any parties to give me the excuse that he had to work. That's my story and I want your best advice. I'll do anything you say.

"DOT."

Well if you "do anything I say," you will proceed to develop a little character and dignity. What happened was that you threw yourself at the head of a man who was merely amusing himself—and with the usual results.

You girls who are at the mercy of any stray man should stop and ask yourself just where you are going. Picture this man glibly telling his friend all about your weakness, excusing his own on the grounds that he was taken advantage of while drunk, and then calmly bowing himself out of the picture with a few well-chosen words.

It is no wonder that men today are afraid to marry. Men worth while do not care to have what the Als have left. Why should they? And in the face of everything, you state you are "not ashamed of what happened." Well, you have every reason on earth to be ashamed. And both you and the girl friend who decided that insult was an indication of love should proceed to alter a few of your ideas. When a man loves a woman he seeks instead of shuns her. When he loves her he rates her above insult. There is nothing romantic about such nasty experiences and they degrade and disgrace those who take part in them. And if all this answer seems harsh, that is just what it is meant to be. And may it bring you and thousands of girls like you out of your trance and cause you to bring into action your mental as well as your emotional equipment. Women really have both, you know—although the men must often doubt it.

Hoover Reappoints Red Cross Leaders

Payne and Five Others Retain Posts on Committee.

President Hoover yesterday notified the Red Cross of the reappointment for one year of the six members of the central committee, who are appointees of his office. They follow:

Firemen to Boost Yuletide Baskets

$400 Is Appropriated for 1931 Charity Work; Double Amount.

The City Fire Fighters Association will provide twice as many baskets of food Christmas Day as it did last year because of the increased need, J. D. Sullivan, president of the organization, yesterday informed Fire Chief George S. Watson.

The firemen recently appropriated $400 for the baskets. In past years, Sullivan said, only $200 has been spent for this charity work. As this latter amount filled 72 baskets, the association hopes this year to prepare 150 baskets. The food is obtained at cost, and the purchases are often supplemented by gifts from merchants.

Lieut. R. E. Morland is chairman of the committee in charge. Other members are: Sergt. F. E. Barber and Privates F. J. Herndon, C. P. Pool, H. Wilson, W. O. America, and P. D. Knight. No. 7 Truck Company headquarters will be used as a storage place for the food.

meeting at Paris, was instructed to ask the council to persuade Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, to withdraw his forces from Chinchow in order to remove the threat of trouble.

Chinese Advance.

Shortly after these instructions were sent the war office said it had learned 500 Chinese cavalrymen advanced east from Chinchow toward the Japanese-operated South Manchuria Railway.

It was made clear that unless something was done about Chinchow, Japan would not accept any league settlement program stipulating that military operations cease.

The Japanese position is that Chang Hsueh-Liang's forces are within striking distance of the South Manchuria Railway and they hold him responsible for beginning the present conflict by attacking a railway bridge on September 18.

The war office has under consideration plans for reenforcing the army detachments at Tientsin, Peiping and Shanhaikwan, and the navy also is preparing for possible activity in the region of Shanhaikwan, where the Great Wall of China reaches the sea.

Final Desperate Gesture.

Paris, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The Chinese delegation to the League of Nations Council prepared tonight for a final desperate gesture in case China's demand that Japan evacuate Manchuria goes unheeded.

That gesture, if inactivity and lack of progress continue, will be to ask the leaders of the league whether there is any meaning in the three "keystone" articles of the league covenant.

One of these articles is No. X, over which the American Senate battled so fiercely. It guarantees the territorial integrity and independence of league members—and this same engagement, so far as China is concerned, is contained in the nine-power treaty, of which the United States is a signatory.

The other two articles are Nos. XV and XVI, which provide the league with the "teeth" which members of the council have frankly admitted they are not ready to use on Japan. They contain provisions for military and economic sanctions.

Main Hope in Note.

The main hope tonight was that the note which had been dispatched from Nanking by Dr. Wellington Koo, China's new foreign minister, might embody some suggestion of compromise which would permit the council to avert complete breakdown of the negotiations. This situation was thus:

The council stood on its unofficial resolution providing for cessation of hostilities and for a commission of inquiry, and requesting the Japanese to withdraw their troops as soon as security conditions allow, with the possibility of neutral observers to help the process.

Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman, stood on his insistence that inquiry must be accompanied by evacuation.

The Japanese stood on their insistence that inquiry must not forbid Japanese military activity.

Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, the Washington Government's observer, remained at his hotel, retaining America's freedom of action.

Stiffer Provisions.

Nanking, China, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The Chinese delegate at the League of Nations Council was instructed today to submit a new proposal containing stiffer provisions than China's previous suggestions for settlement of the Manchurian conflict.

The proposal was dispatched to Paris by Dr. Wellington Koo, who yesterday took over the administration of the foreign office. Its chief provisions are:

(1) Immediate effective measures by the league to end aggressive acts by Japanese troops.

(2) Withdrawal within the railway zone of all Japanese forces two weeks after the adoption of the Chinese proposal by the league.

(3) Neutral representatives to supervise this withdrawal.

Dr. Koo instructed Dr. Alfred Sze, China's league delegate, to inform the council that unless certain conditions are immediately dealt with, Japan will continue her aggression and China will be forced to take measures of self-defense.

Concrete Proposal.

That situation will result, the foreign minister said, if the league's previous evacuation resolutions continue to be ignored and if the league sets up a commission of inquiry incompatible with the provisions of those resolutions.

In announcing his "concrete proposal," Dr. Koo said China welcomes the cooperation of the United States with the council, because America is "thereby assisting us in our struggle to uphold the cause of peace and justice."

Peiping, China, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Two American Army officers arrived today at Chinchow to make a tour of inspection.

The officers—Col. Nelson E. Margetts, military attache at Peiping, and Lieut. Harry S. Aldrich, his assistant—joined British and French officers on the ground. Reports were that, because of the activity of bandits, residents have abandoned an area of about 30 square miles east of Chinchow.

(Associated Press.)

The Chinese Legation announced last night it had received a cablegram from the Tokyo Legation saying the Japanese were contemplating military operations against Manchuli and Jehol, Manchurian cities.

The cablegram, officials added, said there was "no sincerity" in the "apparent conciliatory attitude" of the Japanese foreign office.

Man Held in Bond For Theft of Securities

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—David N. Chadwick, jr., held by Richmond police on a charge of having stolen bonds found in his possession, was released today under $20,000 bond by Judge John L. Ingram, of hustings court. The bond was of a continuing nature to hold good until the final disposition of the case.

Chadwick, who will be given a preliminary hearing here Friday, has been in jail ten days. He denies knowledge of the fact that a $10,000 Liberty bond he negotiated at the Federal Reserve Bank was stolen property. It was asserted by detectives to bear the number of a bond stolen from the First National Bank of Philadelphia with securities amounting to $91,000.

J. M. Batten Is Buried In Albemarle County

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 24.—Funeral services were held this afternoon for J. M. Batten, of Monticello road, who died yesterday at University Hospital after an illness of two weeks. The service was held at Mount Plain Church, near Mechums River, being conducted by the Rev. J. W. Bouldin, pastor of the Hinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Mr. Batten was a native of Albemarle County, a son of the late John Batten, and was 61 years of age. He married Miss Lucy Gaugh, of Albemarle, who survives with five children—Elmer Batten, of Batesville, Va.; James, Guy and Homer Batten and Mrs. Charles Andrews, all of this city.

most troublesome problem before the Democrats.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, party choice for Speaker, said yesterday he did not "anticipate any more problems or friction" at the caucus December 8 than those in "any caucus in the past ten years."

Others Left in Race.

"We Democrats may jabber among ourselves, but we have always worked out an agreement through a give and take proposition," the ruddy faced Texan said. He expressed high hopes for harmony and said he was encouraged over recent developments.

Although Rainey has been assured of support of the majority of the 217 Democrats, Representative O'Connor, of New York, sent a circular letter to the membership asking support and claiming the Tammany delegation and others were backing his candidacy.

Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, still is in the race, but the advocates of Representative Crisp, of Georgia, are leaning to Rainey.

In a statement yesterday, Representative Byrns said he never had been a candidate for majority leader, adding that "upon organization of the next House by the Democrats, I will become chairman of the committee on appropriations."

Claims Largest Committee.

The committee is the largest in the House and handles all of the Government supply bills.

Representative Sumners, of Texas, prospective Democratic chairman of the judiciary committee, said the statement of withdrawal by McDuffie because of sectional interest, "should be the keynote of the Democrats in organizing the House."

McDuffie's action was prompted by claims that both the Speakership and leadership should not go south of the Mason-Dixon line, along with the chairmanships of most of the important committees.

In that conection, the Democratic leaders are generally agreed that the seniority rule on the major committees will go undisturbed. However, Northern members are going to be given the best committee assignments possible, through personal and voluntary sacrifices by a number of Southern members.

Independents Plan Session.

A group of independents, including Representative Howard, of Nebraska, Democrat, will meet today in the office of Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York. They will plan a campaign for liberalization of House rules, to be pushed regardless of which party organizes the House.

Representative Kvale, Minnesota, Iowa Farmer-Laborite, and Representatives Campbell, of Iowa, Selvig, Andreson, and Clague, of Minnesota, and the insurgents from Wisconsin and other Northwestern States, are expected to attend.

The question of who will receive the Republican nomination for Speaker will be decided at a conference of the 214 Republicans Monday. Both Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, floor leader in the last Congress, and Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the last rules committee, are claiming the nomination.

Rally of Democrats Is Held in Allegany

Nomination of Ritchie Is Foreseen at Oyster Roast of Club.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 24.—The Cosmopolitan Club, Allegany County Democratic organization, held an oyster roast at the Farmers' Dairy last night, with more than 300 present. The speakers were Representative David J. Lewis, former Judge William C. Walsh and Oliver H. Bruce, chairman of the Democratic State central committee for Allegany County.

Mr. Bruce forecast the nomination of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie for President next year, while Mr. Lewis expressed belief that the next Congress would act to bring back legal sale of light wines and beer. Former Judge Walsh discussed politics in Allegany County.

Magistrate Edward J. Donohue, Frostburg; City Commissioner Samuel Wertheimer, Cumberland, and Thomas Peel, Lonaconnig, also were heard. Lewis W. Lippold was chairman of the meeting. Officers of the club are Judge Frederick A. Pudenbaugh, president; P. J. Stakem, Paul Ritter, vice presidents; Raymond H. Moorehead, secretary, and Edgar A. Dashiell, treasurer.

DISTRICT REFORMS SOUGHT BY CAPPER

Senator Would Tighten Laws on Prohibition, Firearms and Gambling.

Measures providing for regulation of the sale of firearms, strengthening the local gambling and prohibition laws, and for the merger of the local transportation system were among matters listed by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Sante District committee, yesterday as among District matters which will press for attention at the coming session of Congress.

Study of the child welfare laws of the District may also be undertaken, Senator Capper said, if the furor created by the case of the Riley child develops flaws in the legal machinery for child welfare.

Senator Capper said he had heard much about the case, and believed that if the Board of Public Welfare found one of its workers to have been derelict it would act promptly.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, who seems destined to be chairman of the House District committee in the new Congress, also has declared her purpose to look into the child welfare machinery in the District as a result of the publicity attendant on the discovery of the girl in a windowless closet in the home of her father and her stepmother.

Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, author of the so-called "home-raid" prohibition enforcement bill for the District, intends to reintroduce his measure in the coming session, Senator Capper said he had been informed, and added that difficulties in the National Capital had been due to the faulty enforcement of the laws relating to prohibition and gambling.

The Kansan, who is a dry of long standing, referred to measures drafted by former Senator Robsion (Republican), Kentucky, which would materially extend the powers of the police and make their efforts against gambling much easier. The bills were reported favorably to the last Congress, but since then Senator Robsion has disappeared from the Senate, and the measures will have to find a new sponsor, possibly Senator Capper.

Senator Capper made reference to criticism which was directed at Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman of the District Public Utilities Commission, shortly after President Hoover gave him a recess reappointment and predicted that the Hartman nomination for another term would be the subject of a careful investigation and a public hearing before it would be confirmed by the Senate.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WITHOUT regard to the continuing controversy as to whether such material has any rightful place on the stage, in producing such works as her current excursion into the cesspools of a great city Mae West obviously is aware of a definite and a profitable audience for her feverish and fetid fables.

In the lobby of the Belasco Theater between the acts Monday evening there was a vast amount of twittery expostulation concerning the shocking nature of the incidents being disclosed in the episodic scenes of "The Constant Sinner." Much of the play's content is, as a matter of cold fact, of a character usually subject to segregation even in the most loosely governed of our modern cities. Miss West herself, I believe, does not deny this.

But what irritates me is the smug disapprobation of Miss West and her exciting endeavors by members of the social body who, when safely remote from home and the reproving eyes of relatives and friends, make up the slumming parties that seek out precisely what Miss West in her latest play accommodatingly brings to their very doorsteps, with none of the cost, the social risk or the personal danger of actual matutinal adventures among the underworld's poisonous and predatory personages.

Scattered among the racial mixtures patronizing Atlantic City's shady dives "up north of the tracks" will always be found a generous sprinkling of Boardwalk thrill-seekers, just as Harlem recruits no little of its support from the blase decollete-and-ermine wastrels of the swankiest downtown avenues in New York. They are to be found in every city, these insatiable nocturnal neurotics in ceaseless quest of new "kicks."

For them, Mae West evidently has chosen to write down and act out her sagaciously soiled and smutty sagas, and from among them she will always be able to recruit an appreciative and appreciable "public," ever eager to appraise the latest clinical experiment of so expert a sexualist.

This considerable coterie, no doubt, will deem "The Constant Sinner" well worth the assessed tariff, if for no other reason, just to view Miss West, in the role of Babe Gordon, parading back and forth before that baby sunarc, in scene three of act one, clad only in that minutely expository cellophane wrapper!

Secrets, especially matrimonial secrets, have a way of not remaining such for long. Take the case of Edwin McDonough, assistant house manager at the Rialto Theater, for example.

"Mac" is married, and has been for over a month, but he and Mrs. McDonough are supposed to be the only ones who know it! The bride was the former Anne Casidy, of Baltimore. The newlyweds, of course, have adopted Washington as their permanent home and are now engaged in the happy busines of apartment hunting.

Congratulations! !

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Mrs. Stimson and a small party to whom they had been dinner hosts were guests of the Fox Theater last night, when Secretary Stimson for the first time viewed the Fox Movietone News "shots" of hemself and Signor Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, a recent visitor to Washington.

In the same isue of the newsreel was another subject of interest to the Secretary and his party—a steeplechase race on his Long Island estate.

Ted Tody, peregrinating publicist for Columbia Pictures, is devoting a stopover in the Capital to intensive promotion of the English-made production of "The Dreyfus Case", based on the most sensational social and political scandal in the history of French politics, which will open a special engagement at Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater on Saturday, Dec. 5.

If ever a fact story offered all of the dramatic elements necessary to widespread and intense public appeal, "The Dreyfus Case", although possibly a closed book to the present generation, would seem to be it. Love, scandal, intrigue, surveillance, thrills, pathos, vindication—all are inherent in the story that rocked the world some three decades or more ago.

tures, "Suicide Fleet," opennig entirely out of turn and on the most impossible day of the week, so far as this department is concerned, takes possession of the screen at the RKO-Keith Theater today, following the eighteen-day run of Seth Parker in "Way Back Home." "Bill" Boyd, Robert Armstrong, Ginger Rogers and Jimmy Gleason head the cast of the new feature, made with the cooperation of the U. S. Navy.

"Way Back Home," by the way, played to greater box-office grosses on what would have been the first four days of its third week, if allowed to continue, than it did during the corresponding period of its second week—a most unusual record. Or don't you give a darn, either?

It will be the part of wisdom for astute show-shoppers to scrutinize the "Film Timetables" daily from now until well after the Thanksgiving holiday festivities are over.

Practically all of the downtown first-run picture houses have scheduled late performances for tonight and have put special schedules in effect for tomorrow—all too numerous and too lengthy to enumerate and particularize here.

Tomorrow, not to be left out of the running, all the Warner Bros. neighborhood houses will give special holiday matinees, whether daily matinees are customarily the rult or not. The programs have been assembled with an eye single to promoting a genuinely gala holiday spirit.

Interesting, if not important, theatrical research has disclosed the fact that every play Channing Pollock has written in the last fifteen years has been presented in a Forty-second street theater in New York City.

Checking back from "The House Beautiful," his present success, which played at the Apollo Theater, and which will be seen at the Belasco here the week of December 7, there were "Mr. Moneypenny," at the Liberty; "The Enemy" and "The Fool," at the Times Square; "The Crowded Hour," at the Selwyn; "The Sign on the Door" and "Roads of Destiny," at the Republic.

Then, but not in sequence, there were "Such a Little Queen," at the Old Harris; "The Follies," at the New Amsterdam; "The Grass Widow" and "Her Little Highness," at the Liberty; "The Great Adventurer," at the old American, and "The Pit," at the Lyric.

With all the agitation about appropriate street names, some one should come forward with the suggestion that this section of Manhattan between Seventh and Eighth avenues, New York, be rechristened Channing Pollock's Place.

And back around the Great Lakes, where I come from, this is the day when we used to get the old emory wheel working on the Barney & Berrys and the Winslows, preparatory to the first skating of the year on Thanksgiving Day out at Sager's Lake, or maybe down at Crosby's mill pond.

RHEEM TAKES STAND ON OWN BANKRUPTCY

Head of Defunct Mortgage House Tells Details of Failure.

Edmund D. Rheem on the witness stand in proceedings in the District Supreme Court by which a number of creditors hope to have him adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, admitted yesterday that the firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey owed around $6,000,000 to clients through notes that were unpaid when trusts were released.

Under questioning by E. Hilton Jackson and William E. Richardson, Rheem detailed factors that immediately preceded collapse of the half-century-old investment house. He said that he owned all but 190 of the 675 shares of stock of the company.

Rheem blamed action of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., in insisting that notes held for collection be paid in full when bank officers discovered they were no longer secured by property they purported to represent, as "precipitating" factor in the bankruptcy.

He said he considered a receivership for the company but decided to file a petition in voluntary bankruptcy late in January of this year. He explained that an officer of his company had informed him of the action of the bank in demanding payment in full of notes aggregating more than $200,000, and he instructed an officer of his firm to take customers' securities and replace the disputed notes at the bank.

For these securities the mortgage firm gave customers credit on the books. These credits are still listed as liabilities of the company. Rheem, who is serving a seven-year sentence, will continue on the stand today.

Employment Agent Accused of Fraud

20 Witnesses Tell of Paying for Jobs Without Getting Work.

The Washington Business Bureau, an employment agency, was accused by 20 witnesses today of accepting money on the pretense of providing jobs, but failing to fulfill the agreement. The charges were made at a hearing before Wade Coombs, superintendent of licenses.

John Kendall, proprietor of the agency, was ordered to appear for a hearing when he made application for a renewal of his license, which expired October 31. He was recently convicted in Police Court of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the operation of the bureau, but Judge Isaac R. Hitt later granted a motion for a new trial.

Both white and colored men and women testified at the hearing yesterday that they had paid fees of from $1 to $3 to the Washington Business Bureau on the representation that jobs would be obtained for them. In many instances no jobs had existed, they said, while in others the vacancies had already been filled.

France to Alter Wheat Ruling

Paris, Nov. 24. (A.P.)—The French government will publish a decree tomorrow raising the minimum percentage of native wheat that millers are required to use in bread flour from 90 per cent to 97 per cent, which was the proportion in force before July, 1930.

Modern Pied Piper Attacks 500,000 Rats With Sweets

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Death in a sugar-like pleasant-tasting form was dished out for Central Park's 500,000 rats today by 55 white-coated "waiters," under the direction of a modern pied piper, who has seen millions of rodents literally roll in their graves.

Insaead of musical instruments the 1931 variety of pipers carried 250 pounds of toasted cubes of bread soaked in 75 gallons of an imported chemical.

"The concoction, with a name that means "peace to rats" when translated into English, has a licorice flavor to make it attractive to the rats, and contains a large percentage of saccharin to make it palatable.

Two hours after the rat eats it he develops paralysis in his hind legs. In another hour his whole body is numb and convulsions set in. Then the rolling begins.

"I have seen them roll as far as a mile and a half before they fell dead," said Irving Billig, the modern piper who is known in the "profession" as a "rodent control specialist."

Crowds looked on while Billig's aides spread the bait in every bird, reptile and animal cage in the park. Although the rodent specialist carries wherever he goes a sheaf of letters from Government officials and chemists certifying that the bait is harmless to animals and humans, a report to the contrary had spread through Central Park.

Accordingly, when the dripping cubes of toast were spread promiscuously about a bird cage and a flock of pheasants gobbled them up, several women screamed.

To reassure them, Billig went into the cage took a handful of the bait and ate it with a smile.

"Of course, a tot of the bait disappears before the rat can get to it," he said, "but the only result will be that the birds and animals around the zoo will lose their sylph-like figures."

At a convention in Minneapolis recently chickens fed exclusively on Billig's concoction gained 6 ounces a day for five days.

Tomorrow the rodent specialist will return to the park to estimate the extent of his victory over the army that has been stealing birds eggs and preying on he "infants" of the zoo.

He expects to find thousands of rats lying about the place, for he explained that the bait makes the rodents thirsty and death begins to creep over them while they are out of their holes searching for water.

Delay Sustained In $100,000 Suit

O'Donoghue Throws Out Case Over Transfer of Property.

In his first action as a member of the bench of the District Supreme Court, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue yesterday sustained a demurrer in a $100,000 suit, thereby throwing the case out of court.

The demurrer was filed by six defendants in the suit brought by the District Land & Building Co. The defendants were William M. Bralove, Martin McInerney and the Federal Security & Storage Co., represented by Attorney M. D. Rosenberg, and Harry L. Rust, George C. Bowie and the H. L. Rust Co., represented by Attorneys Minor, Gatley & Drury. Attorney F. Regis Noel appeared for the plaintiff.

The suit involved a transfer of property which had to be sold in a foreclosure proceedings. After listening to attorneys for both sides, Justice O'Donoghue sustained the demurrer.

BODY OF MAIL PILOT FOUND UNDER SNOW

Crash at Full Speed Shown by Wreckage Close to Utah Airport.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The body of Norman W. Potter, Oakland-Salt Lake air mail flier, was found today in his wrecked plane, where he had crashed more than 24 hours before, within 10 miles of his home airport.

The speedometer, locked at 110 miles per hour, and the condition of the wreckage, led investigators to believe that Potter, fighting a blinding snowstorm over the last few miles of his Sunday night flight from the Pacific Coast, had struck the earth at full cruising speed. The propeller was badly twisted and the motor was 5 yards away from the rest of the wreckage.

The pilot apparently had died instantly, as his back was broken. The mail cargo was scattered about, but all was recovered.

Although the wreckage was but about 100 yards from a well-traveled highway, a search conducted yesterday by land and air had failed to reveal its location because of a snowstorm that continued most of the day. About 8 inches of snow covered the plane when it was found this morning.

Officials of the Boeing division of the United Air Lines, for which Potter had been flying for four years, expressed belief that uncertain of his location in the storm and darkness, he had planned to turn back and seek his bearings. Whether he swooped too low and struck the ground or whether the plane had become weighted with ice that threw it out of control they were unable to determine. The ignition switch, they reported, had not been turned off, indicating he had no warning of his predicament.

Victim of Hiccoughing Gets Temporary Relief

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Temporary relief from an attack of hiccoughs, which has affected John Weber, 60, for nine days, was afforded today with the administration of an anesthetic and insertion of a rubber tube into his stomach.

The measures were resorted to preliminary to a projected operation to sever certain nerves connected with the diaphragm, but the operation was abandoned when the hiccoughing ceased. Dr. Kitemplon was unable to say whether the tube or anesthetic, or both had brought cessation of the attacks.

Miners of Pennsylvania Declared Needing Aid

Bad Debts Listed By Small Lenders

Items Cited by Virginia Companies as Heavy Operating Cost.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Figures submitted in the evidence of the Virginia small load company operations investigations today showed that bad debts of the companies averaged $118,880.43 out of total expenses of $669,575.70, or 17.75 per cent.

The statistics were submitted to the State corporation commission, which at the last session of the General Assembly was directed to conduct an investigation into the business of small loan companies operating in the State.

The bad debt item was the largest expense item with the exception of personnel costs. Salaries of officers averaged $122,799.33, or 18.34 per cent, for the years 1927-1930. Taxes totaled 10.52 per cent. The evidence was submitted in connection with the contention of the small loan companies that the high rates of interest charged in the business were necessary because of the large total of bad debts and the high cost of personnel and administration.

STOCK PRICES RALLY DESPITE RAILS' LOSS

Some Carrier Issues Gain in General Recovery; News Affects Markets.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Better buying of cotton and wheat encouraged traders in securities today, and after early irregularity stocks moved forward somewhat briskly.

Principal interest in the stock market centered around railroad securities. They followed a zigzag course, with Pennsylvania and New Haven going to new lows under weight of concern over New Haven's next dividend action, now slated for December 8. Because of its large investment in New Haven, Pennsylvania shared in the decline.

When word reached the market that trainworkers on the Georgia & Florida had voluntarily agreed to a 10 per cent cut in wages, hope was stimulated that the rail unions throughout the country might agree to such action soon. There was enough doubt manifested, however, to temper enthusiasm. The Georgia & Florida action, moreover, was not regarded as a fair cross section of labor sentiment, owing to the fact that this road was faced with necessity of closing down altogether unless given assurance of lower operating costs.

New Haven Recovers.

New Haven recovered a fraction more than its earlier loss in closing dealings, and Pennsylvania came within a fraction of erasing its loss. New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Atlantic Coast Line and Norfolk & Western registered net gains on moderately active turnover.

Declaration of the usual stock dividend of 3 per cent by International Business Machines and expectation that the company will this year report record high earnings resulted in a gain of more than 2 points by that issue. Other industrials which reflected better sentiment, although in many cases the buying was said to be short covering, included American Can, Auburn, Case, DuPont, Eastman and Union Carbide.

Copper stocks were in moderately better demand, with American Smelting recording a gain of 1¼ points. Anaconda and Kennecott were fractionally higher. Announcements indicated that copper fabrications were now adjusting prices downward following recent weakness of the metal.

English Pound Gains.

Sterling featured the foreign exchanges with a net gain of about 3 cents with cables quoted at $3.69. Sharp rally followed early leanness which carried the pound down to $3.62½, a new low on the move. Latest figures from London showed that employment was increasing, with 177,343 unemployed men having been returned to work since Sept. 28. Liverpool advices indicated recent gains in textile output were being maintained and today's advance of $1.20 to $1.40 a bale in cotton was attributed partly to British buying as well as to cheerfulness born of efforts to curtail production next year.

Firmer tone of commodities, with wheat recording gains of 1 cent for December and May, and ⅞ of a cent for March, found reflection in stocks. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics averages based on 90 stocks showed a net gain of 1.4 points. Total sales were 1,256,681 shares.

Moderately easier tone was reported in the money market. Following yesterday's unusual quiet in which no change was shown in our gold supply, the Federal Reserve Bank today reported a net gain of $7,392,500 in gold holdings, of which $5,373,000 represented a shipment received during the day in San Francisco from Japan.

BOND PRICES LOWER AS RAILS LEAD DROP

Carrier Loans Touch Bottom for Year; Turnover Is $10,359,000.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Bonds were unable to match advances in other financial markets today, and headed downward after a fair demonstration of firmness during the morning.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite, covering 60 issues, closed only half a point above the year's low. There was a small increase in volume, sales amounting to $10,359,000, or about $700,000 larger than yesterday's.

Railroad obligations again proved to be the market's most vulnerable spot. The loss in that group averaged almost a point, but in many instances declines ran from 1 to 4, or even more. However, the largest reactions developed in very thin trading, evolving small offerings for which bids had been placed well under recent levels.

New lows were numerous in the carrier section. Boston & Maine 5s and 4¾s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933, Atlantic Coast Line 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, New York Central refunding 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s, and Northern Pacific B 6s, among others, penetrated the low field.

Utilities showed up fairly well. Exceptions included the International Telephone convertible 4½s, which broke with the stock, and the same company's debenture 4½s. American Telephone listings were somewhat heavy, but Western Unions steadied.

International Match 5s met good demand, rallying around two points. Armour loans firmed moderately, although there were soft spots elsewhere among the industrials. Chile Copper 5s broke 5½ points to the new low of 54. Several oil company loans, as well as an assortment of inactive specialties, were heavy.

Japanese bonds closed a shade lower, but mostly in small turnovers. German governments were relatively steady, but air pockets were plentiful in others of German origin. Central Europeans weakened and most Latin-Americans looked soft.

Obligations of the United States were dull. Treasuries had a late sag, which brought nominal net losses.

American Bank Merger With National City Voted

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The last step necessary to effect the union of the Bank of America with the National City Bank of New York was taken today at a special meeting of stockholders of the Bank of America National Association.

Stockholders of the National City Bank had already approved the merger which will bring together two institutions with combined resources of approximately $2,300,000,000, with 90 branches and each, dating back to 1812, ranking among the oldest banks of the country, the enlarged National City Bank, to which National City relinquished that distinction last year. Total resources of Chase National Bank were reported on June 30, at $2,429,309,216. Guaranty Trust Co. ranked third with resources of $1,863,116,541.

Tidewater Oil Reduces Salaries of Employes

Bayonne, N. J., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Axtell J. Byles, president of the Tidewater Oil Co., announced today a wage cut for all salaried employes. The reductions will range from 5 to 20 per cent.

Copies of Byles' announcement were distributed among the employes. The decrease in salaries, said the announcement, is made necessary by "the long continued unfavorable condition in the oil industry. Nonsalaried workers, it went on, have been put on part time, and therefore, it "is not considered equitable for salaries to be continued on the present level."

Argentina's Commerce Balance Is Favorable

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Nov. 24, (A.P.).—Argentina's foreign commerce in the first ten months of 1931 showed a favorable balance of 76,954,000 gold pesos, (about $39,606,000) the statistical office reported today.

Exports amounted to 533,317,000 pesos and imports 456,363,000. The 1931 ten months total was lower by 168-778,000 in the corresponding period of 1930.

Third of Canada's Loan Is Already Subscribed

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (A.P.) One-third of Canada's $150,000,000 national service loan was already subscribed today. Not only did the loan interest Canadians, but the discount on the Canadian dollar made the issue attractive to American investors.

From New York came an estimate that $8,000,000 of the bonds had been subscribed for across the border.

Belgium Delays Loans.

Brussels, Belgium, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Because of the difficulty of launching a favorable long term internal loan at this time, the cabinet has authorized the finance minister to issue a maximum of $15,000,000 in treasury bonds to compensate for delayed tax receipts. Issue of a $30,000,000 colonial loan and a $25,000,000 railway loan has been postponed.

G. W. AND CATHOLIC U. PRIMED FOR HOLIDAY FRAYS

Dallaire, Loyola Ace, Highly Ranked as Pass Tosser.

By JACK ESPEY.

A TEAM that depends chiefly on forward and lateral passing is the Loyola College eleven that comes here tomorrow as Catholic University's home-coming day opponent. But it is not merely the fact that Loyola depends on its passing attack that worries Coach Bergman, of Catholic; rather, the thing that gives Bergman a 24-hour headache is that the Greyhounds' passes usually are completed.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find Bergman working feverishly as the hour of battle nears to perfect a defense that will successfully combat Loyola's overhead offense, and Bergman readily admits that Catholic will be sorely pressed to win unless he reaches his goal in this respect.

After a long session Monday, the Cardinals came back yesterday in Brookland Stadium to drill until dark against the Greyhound aerials as executed by the freshmen. The freshmen were given instructions by Brookland scouts who watched the Baltimore eleven last Saturday as it terrorized an overconfident Holy Cross team at Worcester, Mass., and barely was beaten, 16 to 14, after displaying one of the greatest forward and lateral passing attacks ever witnessed in Worcester.

Southpaw Passer
Is Brilliant.

Loyola, it seems, is one team that does not have to possess an excellent running attack to contribute to the effectiveness of its overhead tactics. In Larry Dallaire, a left-handed tosser, the Greyhounds boast of a forward passer who ranks second to none in the East. Playing roles just as important and as brilliantly as Dallaire are Vince Carlin, half back, and Ken Curtis, end, who act as receivers for Dallaire's accurate heaves. Both Carlin and Curtis are basket ball stars who indicate something of their basket ball ability by the proficiency of their pass-snagging.

According to Brookland scouts, Loyola's running attack should cause Catholic no undue trouble. In this department the Greyhounds' best bets are Egan, full back, and Cullan, half back, aided by a couple of giant tackles, Weidner and Farrell. The last mentioned, incidentally, is a former Catholic freshman, but is not related to the well-known athletic Farrells of this city.

Is Strong.

The Cardinal line, featuring husky tackles, too, in Bingo Flynn, Milt Gross and Tom Nally, has stood up well against all of its opponents this season. On the offense the tackles aid greatly in the dashes that have made Tom Whelan the outstanding ball carrier of the Capital. Gross will not start the game on account of a badly bruised leg.

It is doubtful that Catholic will try to fight Loyola's passes with its own, for Johnny Oliver, star tosser of Bergman's squad, is not in the best of physical condition. Oliver will not start, and there is no other Cardinal even approaching him when it comes to pegging the ball about the field.

In all probability, the starting Catholic line-up will be composed of Fraatz and John Lyons, ends; Flynn and Nally, tackles; Monaco and Jim Lyons, guards; Ambrose, center; McVean, quarter back; DeMello and Whelan, half backs, and Sheary, full back. John Lyons has been named by Bergman to act as captain.

Extensive Program
For Alumni.

The homecoming celebration, of which tomorrow's game is the feature, begins today with the arrival of alumni from all sections of the country. The committee in charge has arranged an extensive program of entertainment for the "old grads" and will show them a bit of the high spirit that pervades the campus atmosphere tonight, when a huge bonfire and "pep" rally will be held. A smoker later will be held at the Congressional Club, while on Thursday after the game a banquet dance is scheduled at Wardman Park.

Colonials and Nodaks Each Boast Speedy Set of Backs.

Dakotans End Drills as G. W. Practices in Secret.

TWO husky squads of football warriors today are merely resting, waiting the morrow's kick-off which will send them against each other in Griffith Stadium in a game that bids fair to furnish one of the season's headline attractions locally. The squads are those of North Dakota and George Washington, which are to meet for the first time. The opening kick-off is scheduled at 2:15 o'clock.

North Dakota completed its practice yesterday in the stadium, while for the second straight day George Washington hustled off to a secluded spot for a secret drill. Last night both coaches reported their players in top shape for a gruelling game.

The visitors, based on their season's record, should triumph, but supporters of the Colonials look for an even battle. Both teams seem to stack up closely physically and both are equipped with several fine ball carriers.

Invaders Boast

Ralph Pierce, Capt. John Burma, Lloyd Richmond and Larry Knauf are the back field aces of the Nodaks. Pierce and Knauf are speedsters of the type of Chuck Keeling and Billy Boehm, that pair of Tulsa backs who devastated George Washington earlier in the season with their sensational dashes. But Pierce and Knauf are bigger and are said to be just as fast.

Not only are the Nodaks equipped with excellent backs but they also have outstanding linemen in Fred Felber, an end who is said to be of All-American caliber; Boomer Dablow and Art Malo, two fine interfering guard specialists, and a pair of tackles in Lamp Wick and Darrall Long, both of whom hit better than the 200-pound mark. In reserve the Nodaks have a tackle answering to the name of Ted Meinhover, who weighs 240 and stands 6 feet 7.

G. W. Well Fortified
In Back Field.

To toss in against the Nodaks Coach Pixlee has several capable backs of his own in the persons of Lee Carlin, Joe Carter, Johnny Fenlon, and Finnis Parrish. All four of these chaps are playing in high gear and promise to give the visitors several worries.

The Colonial forward wall is fairly able to take care of itself, too. Although not quite as heavy as the Nodaks, the G. W. forwards ought to be able to give as much as they take. For George Washington Mulvey and Chambers will be at the ends, Slaird and Nielsen at tackle, Stewart and Dike at guard, and Blackistone at center.

Western High Leads In Junior Rifle Event

Firing a score of 928 out of a possible 1,000 in the third match, first series, of junior biweekly rifle matches conducted by the National Rifle Association, the Western High School rifle team has taken a comfortable lead of 28 points over its nearest rival, Knoxville, Tenn., High School, in the prone-standing division. Knoxville's score in the third match was 900.

Western High and Fresno, Calif., High failed to break their tie for first place in the first division of the prone shooting class, each scoring 496 out of a possible 500. Each of the two teams now has a total of 900 points. The fight between the two widely separated schools is the keenest that has ever developed in the junior matches. Two more matches remain to be fired in the first series.

In the first division, prone class, Western High girls placed fifth with a score of 486 and Central High boys placed sixth, with 485. Considering ties, McKinley High placed fifth in the second division, prone class, with 482. Central High girls placed eighth, with 822 out of 1,000, in the prone-standing class.

Columbia Golfers Tie Congressional Women

For the first time since the women's golf team matches were inaugurated at the beginning of the season, the Congressional Country Club team yesterday failed to win its match. Competition between the Congressional and Columbia Club teams on the Columbia course resulted in a tie, 4½ to 4½ points. This result does not effect the standing of the clubs, the Congressional team having previously won the trophy with ten victories.

The last match of the season will be played next Tuesday between the Congressional and Columbia teams on the Congressional course.

The Indian Spring women's team yesterday defeated the Army and Navy Club team, 7 to 2. This gives Indian Spring the runner-up position, Columbia finishing third.

Grid Deaths Reach 25 As Iowa Schoolboy Dies

Creston, Iowa, May 24 (A.P.).—Donald Stickels, star end on the Creston High School football team until he became ill about three weeks ago, died in a hospital today.

A blood transfusion last night, with his father furnishing the blood, failed to save the boy's life. Physicians said Donald died from a general infection possibly aggravated by bruises received in a football game.

Stickels' death raised to 25 the total of football fatalities this season among high school, college and sandlot teams.

G. U. CRAVES WIN OVER DETROIT

Hold Saturday Foe Strongest on 1931 Schedule.

DETROIT UNIVERSITY was revealed by Tommy Mills yesterday as the team Georgetown is most desirous of defeating. The simple reason, he stated, is that Detroit is the best team on Georgetown's 1931 list of opponents.

Making no qualifications whatsoever, Mills declared that Detroit is superior to Michigan State and New York University, teams which handed his own club whippings, and he added that a victory over Gus Dorais' Titans will be the most notable Georgetown has achieved during his regime.

Mills Banking on G. U.
Spirit.

Mills is banking heavily on the renewed spirit of his team to haul the Blue and Gray colors to victory in the game next Saturday in Griffith Stadium. In practice yesterday, the Hilltoppers went through their paces with the enthusiasm of men who never knew defeat or misfortune. And this season has been marked by more bad luck than any Hilltop eleven has suffered in ten years.

If the Georgetown line, particularly the tackles and ends can cope with the Titan running offense, Mills averred, the Hilltop's chances of emerging on top will be better than even. Otherwise, he added, Georgetown will need the breaks.

X-ray examination proved yesterday that Mack Stanley's injury was a sprained ankle rather than a fracture, as feared at first, but the clever half back probably will not be able to face Detroit. Mills credited Stanley with contributing largely to Georgetown's improvement in the last three weeks.

G. W. Gridmen Pay Way To See Selves Perform

George Washington University's gridders established a unique and highly laudable precedent yesterday when they—36 strong—purchased tickets to the big Alabama charity game to be played at Griffith Stadium December 20. The coaching staff of 5 made made it 41 tickets.

It is believed to be the first time in the annals of football that a team paid admissions to play football. The G. W. gridmen will be the first to oppose Alabama in the spectacular three games for the price of one.

Farrell, Golf Star, Weds Society Girl

Former National Champion Marries Catherine Husk, of Greenwich.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Johnny Farrell, national open golf champion in 1928, and Miss Catherine Husk, of Old Greenwich, were married today in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Bronxville.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Farrell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sarazen, will leave on a wedding trip to San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands.

Miss Husk is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Jerome Husk of Old Greenwich, where she is prominent socially. She met Farrell early last winter at St. Augustine, Fla., where the golfer is winter professional of the St. Augustine Country Club. She is a graduate of Notre Dame de Lourdes Convent, New York City. She recently was Farrell's partner in a series of educational motion pictures on golf subjects.

Cochet Plans Net Tour Of South America

Paris, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Henri Cochet, ace of the French Davis Cup tennis forces, is planning a South American tour, following the finals of the 1932 cup matches. He will take a number of French players with him in an effort to raise funds for the Lyons Football Club, the first sporting organization to which Cochet became affiliated.

VERMONT FIVE READY.

The Vermonts, a 135-140-pound basket ball team, will open its season Friday night at 8 o'clock with the Meridians in the Langley Gym. Other teams looking for competition with the Vermonts are invited to call Manager May at National 8800, branch 364.

CENTENNIALS DRILL TONIGHT.

The Centennials will hold an important drill at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the old Terminal Field. Coach Kheun has several new plays to perfect and desires all Centennials to be present.

JORDAN SENT TO ORIOLES BY NATS

Infielder Is Released to Complete Payment for Gill.

BAXTER JORDAN yesterday was released to the Baltimore Orioles by President Clark Griffith, of the Nationals, this deal completing the payment of Outfielder Johnny Gill, obtained from the International Leaguers late last season for cash and players.

Jordan is a combination infielder-out-fielder, but is said to play first-base better than any other position and it is understood that the Orioles have in mind using him to replace the veteran, Joe Hauser, who led the world in home runs in 1929, only to fall down miserably last season.

Jordan, who started with the Charlotte Club and later tried and failed with the Giants, was drafted by the Nationals from Newark last season but played few games here and later was returned on option to the Bears. He is but 24 years of age.

Was Slugger

While never a sensation here, Jordan's minor league batting record has been exceptional. He hit .378 in 1928 with Toledo, .334 with Bridgeport while there part of 1929, .352 with Newark in 1930, and .325 after rejoining the Bears the past season.

Had Jordan been a right-handed hitter, Manager Walter Johnson might have given him another trial at the Biloxi training camp next spring.

G. U. Preps to Travel For Turkey Day Game

Georgetown Prep will be out to score its first victory of the year tomorrow morning in New Rochelle, N. Y., when it engages the Iona Prep eleven. The Garrett Park boys have tied Landon and St. John's this year, and lost the remainder of their games. Last year Georgetown Prep and Iona battled to 12-12 tie.

The squad, 23 strong, will leave for New York tonight, arriving early in the morning. The game will be played at 10:30 o'clock. The Iona team has been enjoying one of its best seasons on the gridiron. It has won the majority of its games, and numbers among its victims the strong outfits of Fordham Prep and the Newman School.

Princeton in Spot to Score Daddy of All Football Upsets

Defeat of Yale on Satnrday Wohld Be Greatest Reversal of Season; Hope Seen in Last Year's Game.

By HENRY M'LEMORE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—The 1931 football season from top to bottom, beginning to end, Dan to Beersheba, stern to stern, tip to wing, pillar to post and right to left, has been one continual headache for the form player. Not a single week-end that hasn't produced a hatful of upsets, some of them downright startling.

Now, the only thing needed to make this season one of upsets to end all upsets, is for Princeton to get out there in the bowl on Saturday and whip Yale. Strictly off the records, this would seem to be an impossible task. Princeton has shown nothing all year except a pathetic defense and an attack that couldn't break through a wel-made spider web.

Princeton's only victory out of seven games was scored over little Amherst in the opening tiff of the year. The Tigers have scored but 41 points (27 of them with Amherst) against 113 for the opposition. On the other hand Yale has lost only to Georgia, and has a tie with Army and a victory over strong Harvard to its credit.

But before you sneer at the chap who says Princeton has a chance Saturday, and before you give 30 or 40 points, it would be wise to remember what happened last year. In 1930 Princeton had the same sort of team it has this season. So did Yale. The Elis went into the game favored to win by anywhere from 40 to 200 points. Well, they didn't. The Blue won 10 to 7, and was plenty lucky to come out on the big end of the score.

For the Tigers, headed by Trix Bennett and Jack James, simply ran wild. The last few minutes of the game saw them miss by inches a touchdown that would have changed defeat into victory.

Fight and spirit mean a whole lot in such a traditional game as the Yale-Princeton shindig, but there's other things besides these that tend to brighten the Princeton outlook. Yale is bound to let down a trifle after its splendid victory over Harvard, and Princeton, for the first time this year, will be able to throw practically its full strength on the field.

Knell, the best quarter back on the squad, who has been out with

Army Drills Defense for Irish

Penn Ends Practice for Holiday Battle With Cornell.

(Associated Press.)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Intensive preparations for the Notre Dame game got under way at West Point today. Maj. Sasse held a full speed scrimmage session, sending three "B" squad teams in against the varsity seconds, leaving the regulars on the sidelines.

The scrimmage was devoted entirely to defensive work against Notre Dame formations. The second-string back field was composed of Herb, Fields, McWilliam and Vidal, with Vidal doing effective work.

Irish Practice Army
Plays.

McNamara Back in Fordham
Line-Up.

New York, Nov. 24.—For the first time since the Fordham game, Bob McNamara took an active part in New York University's practice session. Both he and Jim Tanguay were put through a long punting drill. Then the varsity was put on the defensive against Carnegie Tech formations in a spirited dummy scrimmage. Tanguay, Abbe, Temple and Grossman made up the first-string back field, with Bob McNamara later relieving Temple.

Return of Malin Cheers
Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24.—Yale, preparing for Princeton on Saturday, was heatened by the return of Vic Malin, ace center, who suffered a broken leg in the Dartmouth game three weeks ago. He was immediately returned to the varsity. Of the two remaining casualties, Nichols, left guard, is expected to be in shape tomorrow, but Hall, right tackle, who suffered a leg injury against Harvard, probably will not be able to face the Tigers.

Penn Polishes Off for

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Pennsylvania put the finishing touches on its attack and defense for the Thanksgiving Day game with Cornell. Frank Yabolonski will start at right guard in place of Diddie Willson. The back field will be made up of Kellett, Ford, Gette and Perina.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 24.—Coach Al Wittmer sent his Princeton varsity against the scrubs in a short scrimmage in preparation for the Yale game. The excellent showing of Jack James, out all season, was the feature of the workout for the second straight day.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 24.—Dartmouth's varsity squad was cut to 40 after a long drill in which the varsity worked out on the defensive against Stanford plays put on by the freshmen. There was no contact work and none is expected until the Indians meet Stanford Saturday. Frigard and Durgin both were in action for the first time since the Cornell game, but it was doubtful whether either would start against Stanford.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24.—A passing attack, to which Coach Jock Sutherland hopes to resort if Nebraska checks his running offensive here on Thanksgiving, was polished up this afternoon at a long Pitt workout. Bob Hogan, regular quarter back, was still on the sidelines. Rocco Cutri probably will be at the post on Thursday. It will be the final game of the season for the Panthers.

Football Ban Success at Loyola

Chicago College Head Points to Increased Enrollment.

Marks Show Upward Trend; Intramural Games Popular.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Intercollegiate football, the robust king of college sports, today appeared dead forever at Loyola University.

Almost a year ago, the large Chicago school with an enrollment of almost 7,000 students, dropped the sport as an experiment. Today, the Rev. Robert M. Kelley, president and instigator of the drastic move, said he was so pleased with the results that he was certain it would never return.

"Naturally, there are a few students who still think Loyola made a mistake in discontinuing intercollegiate football," President Kelley said; "but the preponderant feeling is that we have made a wise move. Personally, I am so elated with the reaction and results that I am for its permanent abolishment here.

"Student registration has not fallen off, contrary to expectations, as the enrollment a year ago totaled 6,760 as against 6,917 this year or a gain of 157 students. My administrative problems have been greatly eased, students have been pleased with the program of interclass and intramural sports which have been inaugurated and the faculty advises it has found the outcome more favorable than it had hoped.

Upward Trend
In Grades.

"A definite check-up on grades will not be possible until after the school year, but the board of regents recently advised that the general trend is upward, as compared with those during the football era."

Football never brought big financial returns to Loyola. Hence, the university actually has saved money instead of losing it by throwing out the sport from an intercollegiate competition standpoint, President Kelley said. The new football stadium, built three years ago for a capacity crowd of 10,000 spectators, has been turned over to the many interclass and intramural teams.

Expert coaches have been provided for those teams in gymnastics, swimming, basket ball, boxing, golf, tennis and track with facilities, formerly restricted to the football squad, turned over for the general student body. Intercollegiate basket ball has been made the big sport of the school and the Loyola cagers have won a national reputation.

Loss of Publicity
Is Offset.

"Some students, in a questionnaire submitted by the College of Journalism, said they believed Loyola has lost a fine opportunity to win good publicity, like Notre Dame and Northwestern, for instance, in abolishing football," President Kelley added, "and that may be true. But almost every one of them agrees that our work has been better in the classroom and every student has received a much better chance to become better fit physically by a more general sports program. It was a hard decision to make, but I am happy we made it."

Carnera Settles Suit Of Indiana Promoter

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera regained unrestricted liberty today when he paid "a substantial part" of a judgment against him for $3,754, obtained by George Biemer, Fort Wayne, Ind., promoter.

Following the out-of-court settlement, Judge William Lindsay dismissed a garnishment which tied up the $16,000 Carnera received for his bout with King Levinsky in the Chicago stadium last Thursday night.

Biemer obtained the judgment on the ground that Carnera had failed to fulfill an engagement to fight in Fort Wayne in August, 1930, causing financial loss to the amount of the judgment. Attorney Edwin Breen, acting for Biemer, said the settlement was "close to the amount of the judgment."

Stanford Eleven Bolstered For Battle With Dartmouth

Moffat Returns to Back Field for Game Saturday; Warner Aims to Uphold Intersectional Record.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24 (A.P.). While Stanford's Indians headed for Eastern battle grounds today to face powerful Dartmouth, hopes of their partisans were revived with the reminder that wily old Coach Glenn Warner has a reputation for winning intersectional games just when the outlook seems darkest.

The Coast's most paradoxical gridiron creation—a team feared by every Western opponent this season despite its most unimpressive record since 1923—the Warner-coached eleven will line up against Dartmouth in Boston November 28, with new-found strength in the expected return of Phil Moffatt, star half back.

An ankle fracture last spring has kept Moffatt out of play most of the season, but reports indicate he will be ready to lead Stanford's attack this week-end.

So far as comparative records go, Stanford and Dartmouth will meet on fairly even terms. Each has lost two games and been tied once. Stanford was defeated by Southern California and California and held even by Washington. Dartmouth lost to Harvard and Columbia and played a tie with Yale.

But the masterful strategy of 60-year-old Warner has been predominant in intersectional play. Defeated on the coast in 1928, old "Pop" led his Indians back to New York where they beat Army, 26 to 0, the worst defeat for the soldiers since 1912.

The same situation obtained in 1929, when after a bad beating by Southern California the Stanford team again turned back Army, by 34 to 13.

Last season, Warner saw his squad held to a scoreless tie by a supposedly weak Minnesota eleven and again beaten in coast play, but he helped celebrate a 13 to 7 victory over an invading Dartmouth team. This year, despite Stanford's chances for no better than a fifth place tie in the ten-member coast conference, Warner's warriors already hold one intersectional victory, a 13 to 0 reversal against Minnesota.

While Warner himself classifies the Dartmouth game as a toss-up, Stanford supporters are banking on the old Hocus Pocus and "Phantom" Phil Moffatt to win.

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE comeback trails are widening for Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard as a result of their performances early this week in which the two old champions of their divisions stepped out of the set-up class and dealt beatings to opponents who merited some respect.

Out in Tulsa, Dempsey galloped four rounds against Babe Hunt to win a decision by four touchdowns over the big Oklahoman, who has the distinction of never having been knocked out. Hunt boasts, among other achievements, decisions over Johnny Risko and Young Stribling, in recent years and is not in the has-been class.

Baltimore was the scene of Benny Leonard's fifth consecutive conquest in his comeback trail. There he met Buster Brown on Monday night and punched out a clear-cut victory over the Baltimorean, who is one of the most rugged battlers in his division and as far removed from the set-up class as he is from Kamchatka.

Leonard may yet get into the big-money class this winter in a bout with Lou Brouillard, the welterweight champion, or Jimmy McLarnin, the dynamiting overgrown lightweight from Vancouver, but the former idol of the Ghetto, unlike Dempsey, first must prove his right to one of these bouts.

Rich purses, at least one, are Dempsey's for the asking. He could quit his barnstorming campaign now and sign for the headline bout in Madison Square Garden, if he desires. Fit or not, Dempsey still commands more money at the gate thany any other of the battling brigade, not excepting Max Schmeling and the world's heavyweight title he sports.

But Dempsey's appearance in the Garden this winter is extremely remote. A Miami outing in February with one of the leading contenders is more probable. Dempsey's drawing power exceeds the Garden capacity, but with the old mauler in the headline event of one of the Garden's Battles of the Palms with 50,000 seats available, the New York firm would be able to stage its first successful bout in the Southland.

But closer at hand is the Carnera-Campolo embroglio in Madison Square Garden on Friday, which is expected to prove, among other things, which is the worst of the new class of "Dreadnaught" battlers.

In Campolo, Carnera will be meeting the first opponent who approximates his match in size and brute strength. The Argentinian has been uniformly unsuccessful in his campaign among the American heavyweights and Carnera in his only true test was battered into a hulk by Jack Sharkey. The bout Friday is for the championship of Carnera and Campolo.

Despite his defeat by Sharkey, Carnera amazed the critics with his flashy footwork that moved his big bulk around the ring with unsuspected speed, and his nice left hand that he kept continually in the face of the American champion. But his defense was open to question and the socking of Sharkey, and his ponderous punches were surprisingly mild. Campolo hits the harder and knows how and when to duck.

Freddie Sington, Alabama's All-American and All-Southern tackle last year, visited our fair city last week to view the Maryland-Washington and Lee game and pronounced himself fit for his appearance with the Alabama Rose Bowl team here December 12 against the combined efforts of Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic University in the game for the District's unemployed.

Like the majority of the Alabama players who graduated from the team last year, Sington is coaching. Wallace Wade requisitioned his star tackle as his assistant when he left Alabama this fall to assume the coaching duties at Duke.

Sington ranks with Barry Wood, of Harvard, as an outstanding scholar-athlete. Like Wood, he is a holder of the Phi Beta Kappa key. So great was his fame as a fotoball player and so high did they heap his praises on the Coast after the Tournament of Roses game last fall that a California promoter tendered him a $15,000 yearly contract to become a professional wrestler, which he rejected.

Fred Lake Dies at 66; Managed Boston Clubs

Boston, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Fred L. Lake, 66, one time manager of the Boston Red Sox, the Boston Nationals, the St. Louis Nationals and the Lowell New England League baseball teams, died today of heart trouble at the New England Deaconess Hospital.

Before taking up managerial duties, Lake was a catcher and first baseman with the Boston Nationals. Later in his career he coached the baseball teams of Harvard and Tufts Colleges.

Chapman to Undergo Operation Saturday

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Ben Chapman, outfielder for the New York Yankees and leading base-stealer of the major leagues in 1931, will undergo an operation for hernia here Saturday.

He will enter the hospital Friday and the operation will be performed by R. Lloyd Nolan.

BLIND LANE SCORES BY NOSE IN BOWIE FEATURE AT 10-1

Royal Ruffin Nosed Out; Outsider Takes Combat Purse.

Kay Frances Scores in Opener; Baritone Wins Final.

By J. B. SNODGRASS,
Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 24.—An upset resulted in the Combat Handicap, feature here today, when Goodstone Stables' filly, Blind Lane, won by a nose from Braedalbane Stables' Royal Ruffin, which was coupled with Mouthpiece, third in the race. Mouthpiece was two lengths behind his running mate. Waterway did not run back to his Pimlico form. Blind Lane paid $22.70, and George Fields gave one of his few exhibitions this fall of his old form as a jockey. The filly ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 1-5.

Thais, C. V. Whitney's filly, set the pace to the far turn, closely followed by Ormesby and Blind Lane. Royal Ruffin, ridden by J. Long, was slow to get in action, but made a fast stretch run, just missing the honors.

One of the largest week-day crowds of the meeting was out for the day's racing, and the finishes continued in most cases to be close and stubbornly contested.

S. W. Labrot's Kay Frances got a head decision in the first race for maiden 2-year-old fillies. Mrs. George Fox's Happen, which has shown to poor advantage, was second, leading in the stretch. This was her first race for her new owner. J. E. Widener's Way About was third and Delude fourth. The winner paid $13.10. Happen was $22.80 for place. Rush ran poorly. Remillard's ride on Kay Frances was one of his best this season, overcoming a long lead held by Happen. The time was 1:14, 6 furlongs.

Sylvester W. Labrot, after winning the first race with Kay Frances, came back in the second, for Maryland-bred 2-year-olds, and won it with Springsteel. R. Workman rode the winner, while Remillard was on Open Hearth, another Labrot juvenile, coupled, which retired after being close to the leaders in the early running. Daisaburo was second. His running mate, Tulach Ard, was scratched. Ral Parr's Lillybet was third. Springsteel won by a half length. Step Liz set the early pace, with Jaffa close up. Springsteel paid $6.50. The time was 1:13 1-5.

Howard Bruce's Avalon won the third race, running 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5. C. V. Whitney's Pennate closed fast and was beaten a head. Seagram Stable's Solace was third, a length and a half away. Sonnelli ran disappointingly, as was the case in his other Maryland starts.

Avalon Takes Lead at Far Turn.

Close up early, he gave way to Avalon at the far turn and finished next to last. Avalon paid $19.10. T. Malley rode the Bruce horse, and he showed unexpected improvement.

H. and H. Stable's Arras took the fifth race in a close finish with Fly Guy and paid $16.10. Scot Free finished third, coming from far back. After trailing to the stretch he moved up fastest of all. Tommy Malley scored his second victory on Arras. Erin Queen showed early speed, giving away to Politen and then Arras. Sun Shadow was challenger but for a brief spell. Only a nose separated the winner from Fly Guy. Arras ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:47 4-5.

Polydorus failed to stop today with Jockey Malley in the saddle, leading all the way to win the sixth race by two lengths, and Malley made it three winners for the day, the only jockey to do the feat since Nertney rode three at Pimlico. Polydorus ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:47 4-5. Honey Grove moved up in the stretch to displace Bubola for place and Bubola held third. The winner paid $4.80.

Off to a slow start and unable to approach even close to the rail, stout-hearted Baritone, a gelding from the stable of E. E. Watson, scored a length and a half victory over Nealon Kay to win the seventh race here today. Baritone was the favorite and paid $7 in the $2 win mutuels.

Baritone circled the field to win, finishing in a burst of speed in the final sixteenth of a mile. Nealon Kay was beaten after maintaining the lead for a mile. Remillard gave the place winner a good send-off and was out in the leaders at once, maintaining a strong front until the stretch, to beat Meander by two lengths. Meander, after running a good race, showed signs of faltering near the end, but rallied under punishment to capture place money by a neck and reward its backers $9.50.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ACCORDING to Floyd Gibbons, the luckiest man on earth is none other than Capt. J. H. Hedley, of Chicago, and Gibbons can't be far from right in his contention.

Hedley was acting as an observer in the plane of a Canadian officer by the name of Makepeace in an air fight during the World War, January 6, 1918. When Makepeace made a sudden dive, Hedley was thrown cl

CENTRAL VS. WASHINGTON-LEE ENDS SCHOOL GRID SEASON

Teams Clash Today for Charity

Central Seeking Revenge for 1930 Loss to W.-L.

THE fifth annual Central "C" Club game will be played this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock in Central Stadium, bringing together Central and Washington-Lee High, of Arlington, Va., two of the biggest schoolboy grid outfits in the neighboring territory. Proceeds of the game will be distributed among the District's jobless and homeless.

The victim of an 18-0 loss last year to Washington-Lee, Central's outlook is only a trifle more rosy this year, despite the loss of several notable W-L stars and the general bolstering of the Central team this year. Frank Cumberland, Central quarter-back, whose presence in the line-up today would have given Central an even chance to beat the Little Generals, has finished his grid season, as a result of a chest injury suffered last Friday in Central's game against Gonzaga.

Gibbins Shifted to Quarter.

Cumberland's place at quarter-back today will be taken by Hank Gibbins, All-High guard, who has been shifted from guard to tackle to halfback to end already this year. Gibbins is an excellent passer and kicker and a fair ball runner. His greatest work in the back-field will be to clear the way for McKenzie, one of Central's fleetest backs. Porter and Dunlop are the other Central backs. The Central line remains the same.

Washington-Lee with the 250-pound Clements in center, an all-State tackle in Via, and a real rough and tumble player in Rosenberger, end, brings a good line to Central Stadium. The backs are big and hard-running.

Central has yet to win a C Club game. It lost in 1927 to Central High of Charlotte, N. C.; in 1928 to Princeton Prep and in 1929 to Devitt.

Virtually the same line-up as starts today's game will open hostilities tomorrow against the Charlottsville Fives, in Charlottsville.

It is the swan song of the local high school grid season. Two more local schools, Central and Georgetown Prep, have one game apiece to play, but on foreign fields.

THE LINE-UPS.

W.-L. HOPES TO DOWN DUKE

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 24.—"Shoot the works against Duke" is the word which is passing around the Washington and Lee camp, where the Generals are pressing themselves to be in top shape Saturday for the invasion of the Blue Devils.

Every powder horn will be empty when the fourth period ends on Wilson Field this week. Every trick in the Generals' repertoire—and a couple more especially arranged to confound Coach Wade's men—will have been tried, and both teams are expected to play with an abandon which can only be approached in the final contest of the year.

Co-captains in Final Game.

For a quartet of Coach DeHart's men who have seen heavy service this season, it will be the last game of their collegiate careers. Pat Mitchell and Frank Bailey, cocaptains, and Tex Tilson and Wilbur Mattox are the four who will attempt to make their final appearance a lasting one. Fleet Joe Sawyers and several other sophomore comes are likely to be equally impressive in their first meeting with the Blue Devils. Coach DeHart is pitting them against an eleven which he coached last year almost in toto.

There is lots of confidence among the Washington and Lee students, despite the fact that their eleven is meeting the conquerors of Kentucky. The Generals' defense, as exhibited against Princeton and Maryland the last two Saturdays, was superb, and their offense is being touched up with variety this week for the Saturday fray.

The Washington and Lee Band is getting ready to play its part, and the sophomore class dances Friday and Saturday nights are expected to fill Lexington with the holiday spirit.

Poly Coach Undecided On Turkey Day Line-up

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 24.—V. P. I.'s team is prepared for a mighty thrust at the gridiron forces of V. M. I. in the twenty-ninth clash between Gobblers and Keydets.

Things are looking up on the Polytechnic practice fields. Big Jim Swart was switched from guard to an end position this week and has done so well in practice that Coach Neal will probably start him on the flank in the big game. Bill Betts, for three years a reserve lineman, tore his way through the freshman forwards in Monday's long scrimmage. He may realize his ambition of a place on the first eleven in his final game. Coach Neal intimated tonight that the popular Richmonder would get the call at guard.

Coach Neal is undecided about several positions in his starting line-up but it will probably be: Swart and Seamon, ends; Stark and Grinus, tackles; Hite and Betts, guards; Capt. Brown, center; Hardwick, quarter back; Robison and Ottley or Groth, half backs; Porterfield, full back.

Tech Title Hopes Are High As Court Squad Reports

Only Two of Last Season's Stars Missing; Capt. Willison Already Has Clinched Berth; Difficult Schedule Arranged.

TECH HIGH'S basket ball squad, at this early date, looks fully capable of restoring the school to the high school series titles it held in 1929 and 1930. Only two players who played roles in last year's series are missing by graduation and the rest of the squad is already in shape good enough to start out an active season.

Artie Willison, Tech's triple threat guard for last year's team, is captain of the squad this year and has clinched a berth for himself at the start of things. Fred Thomas, a sturdy defensive player and one of the best passers in high school ranks, is back on the job and should be elected Willison's running mate.

Gregoria Fastest on Squad.

The guards have real alternatives this year in Gregoria and Pinetta, guards on the Boys Club Unlimited Team last year, one of the finest quints of the 1930-1931 season. Gregoria is perhaps the fastest boy on Tech's squad and has not heretofore been seen in a Tech uniform because of scholastic failings.

Everett Russell, captain of Tech last year, and all-high forward, will not play until the opening of the high school series, the second week of January. A sprained ankle, suffered in an inter-fraternity football game last week, will keep Tech's triple-plated threat out of the running.

Bernie Reichardt and Waverly Wheeler, two sharp-shooting midget forwards from last year, have grown considerably and increased their deadliness. In a practice game yesterday Wheeler scored 30 points and Reichardt was little behind. Together with Russell, they give Tech the most consistent set of forwards in scholastic ranks.

Reed and Beach will attend to jumping center for Tech. Both are veterans from last year's team and Reed can alternate well at guard.

Tech Faces Difficult Schedule.

The schedule is the hardest yet attempted by a Tech team. Five college frosh teams are on the list—Maryland, Catholic University, Georgetown, St. John's and Navy Plebes. The initial series game will be played against Business. The schedule:

December 14, Wilson Teachers; 19, C. U. Frosh, there; 30, Tech Alumni.

January 8, Business; 9, Navy Plebes, there; 12, Central; 13, Gonzaga; 16, G. W. Frosh, there; 19, Western; 22, Eastern; 26, Business; 27, Central.

February 3, Maryland Frosh, there; 5, Western; 9, Eastern; 11, C. U. Frosh; 12, Staunton, there; 13, Charlottesville Fives, there; 17, G. W. Frosh; 20, Charlottesville Fives; 22, Gonzaga, there; 24, St. John's Frosh, there; 27, Georgetwon Frosh.

ON SOUTHERN GRIDIRONS

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Gene McEver, Tennessee half back, has proved the fallacy of the old sport saying, "Trey never come back." McEver, the Nation's high scorer and an All-Southern half back on the 1929 Associated Press concensus, was on the side line last year suffering with a bad knee. And there were many who felt he would not be the same powerful, driving back this season after a year's lay off.

But Gene came back. His fine performances in all of Tennessee's games this year have brought him a majority vote for another all-star team nomination.

Don Zimmerman, of Tulane; Jimmy Hitchcock, of Auburn, and John "Shipwreck" Kelly, of Kentucky, are other fine back field men who have received many votes.

For the second successive year Vernon Smith, of Georgia, and Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, have clinched the end positions on the team selected for the Associated Press by coaches and sportswriters.

Smith's selection marks the third time he has made the all-star team. He is one of the few men in Dixie to make the honor squad in each of his three varsity years.

Returns that are being received from all over the South indicate close battles will be waged for the other positions on the mythical eleven.

Patton, of Sewanee; Wright, of Kentucky; Saunders, of Tennessee; Cobb, of North Carolina State; Torrance, of Louisiana State, and Leyendecker, of Vanderbilt, are among the leaders in the votes for tackles.

Among the guards receiving much mention are Fysal, of North Carolina; Hickman, of Tennessee; Krajovic, of Maryland; Maddox, of Georgia; Scafide, of Tulane, and Leather, of Georgia.

Adkins, of Duke; Lodrigues, of Tulane; Gracey, of Vanderbilt; Sharpe, of Alabama, and Reiss, of Virginia, are among het leaders for the center post.

Cain, of Alabama, and Felts, of Tulane, are waging a merry scrap for full back honors, with Roberts, of Georgia, close behind.

Sawson, of Tulane; Henderson, of Vanderbilt, and Downes, of Georgia, are attracting most interest among the quarter backs.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—South Carolina's Gamecocks held a brisk workout here today nad prepared to leave tonight for Montgomery, Ala., to meet Auburn there Thanksgiving Day. The team will work out at Montgomery tomorrow.

Earl Clary, star back, was to accompany the team but may not play because of a leg injury. Center Joe Shinn, who has been out since the Georgia Tech game, was considered a possible starter. No scrimmage was held today.

Durham, N. C., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Offensive and defensive scrimmage was on the bill for the Blue Devils of Duke this afternoon in what was probably the hardest workout they will have this week.

Today's back field combination consisted of Ershler quarter back; Laney, left half back; Brownlee, right half, and Mason, full back. Abbott was alternating with Laney, Belue with Mason and Mullen with Ershler.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The University of North Carolina varsity ran rough shod over the freshmen aggregations today as the Tarheels went through their last practice session of the season. Johnny Branch, stellar quarter back who has been under suspension for six weeks, led one eleven in a spectacular drive. Chandler, Groom and Slusser, all back field aces, were out with injuries, as was Staton McIver, guard.

Wash. College Preps For Season on Court

Chestertown, Md., Nov. 24.—With basket ball just around the corner, Washington College, long a leader in Maryland intercollegiate floor contests, has as likely a group of new material, especially in the first year class, as any to enter the local institution in recent years, according to Head Coach J. Tom Kibler. The few prospects that have been able to indulge in cage practice during the football season, under preliminary tutelage of Fred (Dutch) Dumschott, assistant coach, have shown excellent form.

Two newcomers in particular are looking like real basket ball players. They are Huey, of Waterbury, Conn., and Carozza, of Elmira, N. Y. Of the two the former has played in both high and prep school tilts and is the more experienced, though the Elmira lad is a fine passer, has a pair of large basket ball hands and evinces a natural aptitude for the game.

The schedule:

January 15, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; 16, Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md.; 23, Loyola College, at home; 30, St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia, at home.

February 6, St. John's College, at home; 10, University of Maryland, at College Park; 13, Johns Hopkins, at home; 16, Swarthmore College, at home; 19, Mount St. Mary's College, at home; 23, St. John's College, Annapolis; 27, Loyola College, Baltimore.

March 5, Western Maryland College, at home; 12, Alumni, at home.

PREPS STAGE WORKOUT.

The Northern Preps will hold their final grid practice of the year tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road, in preparation for their game tomorrow afternoon in Fredericksburg.

MERIDIANS WORK TONIGHT.

The Meridians, Capital City League team, will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Georgia and Iowa avenues. All players are urged to report without fail.

RAY IS NAMED BASEBALL COACH

JACK RAY, former Georgetown University and Maryland athlete, will coach Central High's baseball team next season, succeeding the post left vacant by the resignation last summer of Ty Rauber. Bert Coggins, who winds up his football coaching tomorrow, will start basket ball Monday. Bill Foley again will coach track.

Ray, until the first semester of this year, was connected with the physical education department of Eastern, where he aided Charlie Guyon in baseball.

At the time he took over Rauber's place at Central, Bert Coggins planned to coach baseball as well as football and basket ball, but since has been persuaded to let Ray take charge of diamond activities.

Lynn Woodworth, of Business, is the only coach who has guidance over three sports—football, baseball, and basket ball. There are, however, at Business a notably smaller number of boys to deal with.

High school personnel regulations allow three tutors in the physical education department of Tech, Central, Western, and Eastern.

CRACK TEAM FORMS

With such former college basket ball stars as Hickey, Sherman, Ball, Cappelli, Barney Smith, Beall, Williams, Gaskins and Jim Ryan, in the line-up, the Delaware & Hudson Coal Co. Five will open its season tonight at Central High Gym, meeting the United Grays.

DEVITT GAME IN IOWA IS OFF

Proposed Clash for Charity Fails as Drawing Card.

DEVITT PREP and Trinity High School, of Sioux City, Iowa, will not play their charity game, scheduled for Sioux City Thanksgiving Day, it was learned yesterday. Plans for the game, and the 1,500-mile trip on the part of the local boys, virtually were completed when the Sioux City authorities asked Devitt to release them of their gentleman's agreement.

Devitt was to be given a $2,400 guarantee to appear for the game, whose proceeds were to go to charity. The committee in charge of the contest at first sought a game with Sioux City Central High School, whose games attract the largest gatherings in high-school ranks in that region. Central's previously scheduled opponent refused to yield its place to the local team.

Trinity to Seek Nearby Rival.

Trinity High, a parrochial Sioux City school, was then signed to play Devitt and the agreement closed. Devitt reorganized its grid forces, whipped a team in shape and played the strong National Training School eleven to a 0-to-6 tussel last Friday.

The Sious City committee in charge of the game, doubting that the game between Devitt and Trinity would bring rich rewards for charity, are now seeking a strong nearby scholastic foe for the turkey day game.

G. U. TICKETS ON SALE.

N. C. U. GAME LAST FOR 5 VA. STARS

Capt. Thomas Among Cavaliers Through After Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 24. Five Virginia lettermen will be playing their last gridiron game in the Orange and Blue uniform against North Carolina in the Keenan Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. Capt. William T. Thomas, of Richmond, Va., half back; Herbert Bryant, of Alexandria, Va., guard; William DeButts, of Barboursville, Va., guard; Segar Gravatt, of Blackstone, Va., end, and Douglas Myers, of Petersburg, Va., half back, form this quintet of veterans.

Fenton Gentry, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Floyd Lankford, of Baltimore, Md., both guards, will also be winding up their football careers, but neither has won the "V" on the gridiron. William St. Clair, of Beckley, W. Va., "V" man and end, may be finishing, for whether he is to be eligible for play next session is something that the authorities still have to decide.

Thomas Ends Third Year As Back.

Bill Thomas, Cavalier captain, will be closing three years of back field play that have all been brilliant. Despite the fact that he has played each fall behind a poor line, he has gained an average of more than five yards for each time he has tried to advance the ball from scrimmage within this period.

Herb Bryant, Virginia's only letterman in four major sports, started out playing the back field, and ended in the line. He is the heaviest man on the varsity squad, and at the same time the fastest in short sprints. He has won the "V" six times, twice in football and baseball and once in boxing and track.

Bill DeButts has been playing football in Charlottesville for more than six years. He was in the line on the Charlottesville High School eleven at the same time that his brother, Dick, was the regular varsity tackle. He has played as a regular three seasons.

Segar Gravatt was a half back before he became an end. Last fall when he was just about certain of becoming a regular behind the Virginia line, he was transferred to the flank, where he made good all over again. An injury received in the V. M. I. game may keep him from playing against Carolina.

Douglas Myers is serving his third year in Virginia back field as a triple threat who can punt, pass and run with the ball. Myers is Southern Conference middleweight boxing champion. He was a star on Petersburg High School before entering Virginia.

V. M. I. READY FOR POLY GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 24.—Ten members of the V. M. I. varsity football squad will perform for the last time on Maher Field when the Flying Squadron faces V. P. I. at Roanoke on Thanksgiving Day. Five of them will be in the starting line-up. The seniors include Montie Rea, who has turned out to be one of the finest centers V. M. I. has had in years; Art Markliss, a reliable guard, and Capt. Johnnie Gill, Ranny Gregory, and Tom Grainger, among the ends.

In the back field Ralph Waite, leading scorer of the team; Buck Wright, Harry Baya and Doc Bailey will be lost by graduation. Al Rochelle, who has played a great game at guard this season, will return to the institute next year, but will not be eligible to play. It is expected that he will follow in the footsteps of Roy Dunn, last year's captain, who has worked faithfully every day on Alumni Field this season to help Coaches Raftory, Hess, and Grow develop a fighting eleven from what was green material at the start of the season.

Cadets Leave Thursday For Game.

Subject to last-minute changes, the Cadets will face the Gobblers with the following line-up: Capt. Johnnie Gill and Ranny Gregory, ends; Landon Hilliard and Charlie Straub, tackles; Al Rochelle and Ed Kostainsek, guards; Montie Rea, center; Bill Smith, quarter back; Stumpy Travers and Tucker Watkins, half backs; Ralph Waite, full back. Art Markliss, Bill Kaylor and Fred Urick are likely to see service in the line, and Jack Lavinder, Harry Baya, Louis Seigel, Charlie Roller and Buck Wright may be called on for back field duty.

The corps of cadets will leave Lexington by special train at 8 a. m. Thursday, and will leave Roanoke at midnight on the return trip. The football squad will travel by bus, the times of departure and return being the same as for the corps. On return to Lexington the cadets will hold the usual Thanksgiving dances on Friday and Saturday nights.

PRINCETON IN SPOT TO ENGINEER UPSET

injuries since the Amherst game, will be available for duty against the Bulldogs. So will Jack James, the best ball-carrier on the team, and one of the best broken field runners in the East. James was out for practice today and looked to be in the best of shape.

Princeton's line is certain to be stronger on Saturday than it has been in the last three games, for Bill Yeckley, captain and tackle, is back in shape, and will start against the blue.

With Knell in the back field, Princeton will be able to offer a real passing threat. The little quarter back is a sharpshooter with the leather, a chap who can not only put 'em, but put 'em there at the right time and is a mighty handy fellow to have around.

3 Capital Coaches Foresee Hard Battle With Alabama

Each Says Team Is Hopeful of Victory in Charity Game.

WASHINGTON is assured a spectacular, hard-fought football game when Alabama's Rose Bowl champions meet the teams of George Washington, Catholic and Georgetown Universities in Griffith Stadium on December 12, it was declared by the head coaches of the three local schools yesterday at a "pep" rally in front of the District Building.

Introduced by Dr. George C. Havenner, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, Jim Pixlee, of G. W.; Dutch Bergman, of C. U., and Tommy Mills, of G. U., told a crowd of 500 that their respective teams would be out to win over the invading host, having no fears of the team that defeated Washington State last New Year's Day, 24-0, in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena, Calif.

Captains of the local teams and cheer leaders also spoke convincingly of the attractiveness of the event which is arranged for the benefit of Washington's unemployed. The band of the National Training School was present with some lively renditions of college tunes.

Agencies handling the ticket sale for the game reported an increased demand for the pasteboards following the demonstration. Places where tickets may be procured are Spalding's, 1338 G street northwest, and Griffith Stadium. Prices are $1.50 for general admission; $2 for reserved seats, and $2.50 for box seats.

Alex. High Gridmen Seek Virginia Crown

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 24.—Alexandria High School gridders have entered the battle for the State football championship. They defeated the Fredericksburg High Yellowjackets in a game last week, 13-0.

Maurice Given, athletic director, has been busy communicating with officials of the Virginia Literary and Athletic League at Charlotesville, Va., to learn the date for the first title battle.

The high school team will play Swavely Preparatory School eleven at Manassas, Va., on Thanksgiving Day in the final game on its schedule. State competition will begin immediately after this fray. The Alexandrians won the football title of the State in 1928 when they defeated South Boston High in the most spectacular game ever seen here.

PALACE TEAM DRILLS.

The Palace Gridders, leaders in The Post's Capital City League, will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Tidal Basin. Jim Dearborn, full back, will return to the squad after a two-week vacation in time for Sunday's crucial game with the Centennials.

Fraters Out to Down St. Stephen's Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 24.—Shorty Scrivener's Fraters are out to win the Thanksgiving Day game here when they mix with the fast St. Stephen's eleven, of the Capital City League, in the lone attraction at Baggett's Stadium, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

The Fraters will have Elfet Cabell and Dug Crupper, two of their regular back field men, at their old positions after an absence from the game for ten days. Both suffered minor injuries in previous games.

It was learned today, however, by Head Coach Dr. Dreifus that "Bottle" West, all-Capital City League tackle in 1930, would be lost to the team for the season.

3 Players Stand Out As Likely Yale Captain

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 24 (U.P.).—The annual election of Yale's football captain for next year will be held next Tuesday evening, it was announced tonight.

NAVY DRILLS ON AERIAL PLAYS

Only Two Regulars Missing at Hard Work Session.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—Only two regular players were not in togs when the Navy varsity football group resumed real activity again today in preparation for the three remaining games of the season's schedule. There are "Bert" Davis, who recently won his spurs as varsity quarter back, and Reedy, left guard and heaviest man of the team, tipping the scales at nearly 200 pounds.

Davis developed a cold in Saturday's game against Southern Methodist and the medical authorities deemed it advisable for him to nurse it along for a day or two. Reedy is suffering from an injury that will prevent him doing any heavy work for several days.

Penn, Army Games In Offing.

With two outstanding contests, Pennsylvania and West Point, in the offing, it will be the policy of the coaches to take especial care of their charges, now that the squad as a whole is in good physical condition. Today saw the return to the line-up of Lawrie Smith and Lynn Elliott, regular flank men, neither of whom saw service against the Mustangs.

The squad got out early for today's practice session, and with the temperature somewhat more seasonal than it has been for the last two weeks, Head Coach Rip Miller and his staff of assistants carried them along at a lively clip, beginning with fundamentals and winding up with the stiffest kind of a scrimmage against the shock troops, designed chiefly, however, to put more polish to the various formations and special plays.

Miller is a great believer in the overhead game, without, however, neglecting the running attack, and a major portion of today's session was devoted to aerials, both from an offensive and defensive standpoint.

"JIMMY" WALKER MAKES HIS PLEA FOR TOM MOONEY.

(As it possibly might happen in view of the mayor's kaleidoscopic activities.)

"Mister Toastmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"We are here tonight to add our voices to the rising clamor for the pardoning of Mr. Tom Mooney, who needs, I am sure, no introduction from me. This is an occasion that fills me with great pride. The United States holds out the warm hand of fellowship to her sister republics across the sea, and your excellency visits our shores as the honored son of a Nation rich in history and traditions. . . .

• • • • •

"What, then, are the facts? In the gray mists of an August morning Mooney threw off his bathrobe and slipped unceremoniously into the chill waters of the English Channel off Cape Gris-Nez, setting forth on that epic swim in which he was to conquer wave, tide, wind and current.

• • • • •

"There was the usual hue and cry. The police demanded a victim. And what happened? As the forces of civilization and barbarism clashed at Chateau-Thierry on that sultry afternoon, you, sir, as chief of the allied armies, so directed operations that the doom of the German powers was definitely sounded. But no words of mine can add to the glory of those accomplishments, and I but speak and voice the sentiments of the people of the city of New York when I welcome you to our shores.

"Now, Mr. Chairman, we come to the arrest. Let us examine the record. A bomb was thrown. Olvany's millions were disclosed. Tammany leaders' magic tin boxes came to light. Sherwood fled to Mexico. And out of the skies, unheralded and unsung, there landed on Curtis Field that summer afternoon the gentleman we honor here today.

• • • • •

"No one knew him. He was unacclaimed by the press. He had no claim to distinction or fame. And in a few short hours he took off ALONE on that flight across the Atlantic Ocean that stirred the souls of men. And so I say, Premier Rolph, the evidence here is a mass of contradictions. Where was Billings? Flying over the polar wastes. And where was Mooney? Achieving that splendid victory in the British Open at St. Andrews, which proved that among American golfers there is no such word as fail!

• • • • •

"Therefore, your excellency, I ask for the release of Tom Seabury, and I am happy to pin upon your breast, your highness, this medal of the City of New York, to acclaim you an emissary of peace to this hemisphere, to pledge you my best wishes for the success of this allied debt mission and to state publicly that no scandal will be tolerated in any department.

• • • • •

"I give you, Mahatma Rolph, the keys to the city; press the button formally opening the Hollywood wedding pageant, deny that Tammany Hall ever took a dishonest nickel and urge upon you, sir, that my client, Senor Dino Ramsay Lone Eagle Aristide Mooney, savior of France, strong man of the British Empire, flying ace and golfer extraordinary, be nominated by the unanimous consent of this convention. I thank you."

MR. MUNDAY AT HARVARD.

Mr. Bill Munday subbed for the disbarred Ted Husing at Harvard last Saturday and did so pleasantly enough, but it is this department's notion that he could be barred from the stadium for trying to revive the Civil War. Mr. Munday's broadcast made it seem a battle between the North and South. "Harvard is now marching south" and "the Eli boys are now going toward Dixie," he said incessantly. We expected him to refer to the Rebs and Yanks any moment.

The Metropolitan Opera Company stars have taken a 10 per cent cut in salaries. If the worst comes to the worst they can always take notes for what is coming to them.

"Fewer Corsets and Fogs Better English Women's Health."—Headline. It's always a question which improves some women's figures the more.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

The former Kaiser hits a new low In the Memoirs of Von Buelow.

AND HOW IT WILL HURT!

Albie Booth, by his forward pass, followed immediately by his drop kick, beat Harvard Saturday. Nobody on the Army, Dartmouth or Holy Cross team had been able to perform this feat, and there is just an outside chance that those sports editors who have been scoffing at Albie these three years may have to admit that he is pretty good.
